"Then faint not, falter not, nor plead
Thy weakness; truth itself is strong;
The lion's strength, the eagle's speed,
Are not alone vouchsafed to wrong."

The Question Mark turns out to be a veritable Exclamation Point!

The Senate gives Mr. Vane an indefinite leave of absence.

Senator Tom Heflin wants a daily allowance of 150 copies of the Congressional Record instead of 86. We fear another masterpiece by Tom's favorite author is imminent.

Eleven Mexican bandits preparing to wreck a train are executed and strung up along the highway, and maybe what State Street needs is better lamp-post decorations.

Representative Ketchum, of Michigan, defends the semicivilized State in which the mother of a family suffers the same punishment for selling a little flicker that would have been inflicted on her if she had murdered her husband, cut off the heads of all her children, burned down the house and shot the policeman who came to arrest her. The cynical theory that what a State does is its own business went into the political discard in this country when Uncle Sam kicked polygamy out of Utah, and is being severely strained just now by lynchings in Mississippi.

Also let us not forget that there is a young boy who is serving a life-term in Michigan for the crime of having a pint of gin on his hip. A State that would inflict an outrageous punishment like that belongs in the Congo.

Perhaps the first prohibition law in America was in Colonial Georgia, down in the wet-drinking, dry-voting South, whose motto, appropriately enough, was Non sibi sed alii, and not for themselves, but others, still seems to be the slogan of those wet sections of the country without whose support in Congress the Volstead act couldn't command an appropriation of a thin dime.

"There is," says Hallam, discussing the case of Edward Floyd, a Catholic Englishman, who in 1821 was sentenced to pay a fine of 5,000 pounds and to be hanged for life, for expressing his joy that "godless France and good old England" had been driven from Prague, "surely no instance in the annals of our own, and hardly any civilized country, where a trifling offense, if it were one, has been visited with such outrageous cruelty." Well, Hallam didn't know about Michigan.

The Talking Machine joins the Radio army on Gen. Forrest's plan of strategy, "if you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

The Pittsburgh, in its drive against the cruiser bill, picks up a bewhiskered ally in Communist Russia.

"Horrible, hairy, human, with pause like hands in prayer, Making his supplication rose Adam and the bear."

It's hard to tell whether Grover Whalen has been placed in charge of the New York police department or the health department.

Mammoth Cave Association pays $500,000 for a hole in the ground, but most of us prefer to drop our coin in Wall Street, which is deeper.

The Census Committee presents a plan to the House of Representatives for obeying the Constitution of the United States. Maybe there will be less flouting of the laws of this country when there is more respect for them in the place where they're made.

Lord Byron's sensational clean-up indicates he may be cherishing the ambition to go down in history as the Grover Whalen of London.

We gather from the Senate debate that the Kellogg peace treaty to abolish all wars until the next one gives Great Britain no rights that she wouldn't take anyhow.

The trouble with this country today is that the average American statesman is less interested in the Monroe Doctrine than he is in the F. Scott McBride doctrine.

London goes after her spokesmen just like Grover Whalen does in New York—Byng!

It has remained for Prohibition to draw the distinction between Liquor and Poison Liquor, whereas in the old Temperance days it was all poison. The Reckless appear to be losing ground.

There seems to be a disposition in some pacifist quarters to make the Senate Naval Affairs Committee the House of Detention.

Michigan bay of 17 shoots and kills a neighbor for selling his father a pint of liquor on New Year's Eve. Under prohibition we are rapidly increasing our young with the belief that murder is a less serious offense than selling a drink.

FUELED PLANE, 84 HOURS IN AIR, SETS 2 RECORDS

Heavier-Than-Air Time and Refueling Mark Are Surpassed.

PERIOD OF ZEPPELIN IN AIR IS NEXT GOAL

Question Mark to Land Only When Motors Give Out; May Go 500 Hours.

Metropolitan Airport, Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The Army monoplane Question Mark had completed 84 hours of continuous flight in her refueling endurance test at 7:26:46 p. m. The ship, which took off here on New Year's Day at 7:26:46 a. m., has broken two major endurance records during four days of flight and tonight was approaching another record—that of longer sustained flight by heavier-than-air craft than by lighter-than-air craft.

The two world records now held by the Question Mark are the longest refueling flight and the endurance flight record for heavier-than-air machines. The refueling record was broken at 9:33 o'clock last night, when the Army plane exceeded by 1 hour the record of 60 hours and 7 minutes, made in Belgium.

The sustained flight record of 65 hours and 25 minutes, held by Germany, was beaten by an hour at 12:32 a. m. today, at which time the Question Mark had been in the air 66 hours and 25 minutes. The old record must be broken by an hour to stand.

Mileage Placed at 5,400. An air tour of 5,400 miles was the unofficial estimated mileage of the Question Mark at its eighty-fourth hour tonight—a distance equal to that from San Francisco to Yokohama. The estimate was based on an assumed average of 65 miles an hour, which Army officials stated undoubtedly was lower than the actual speed of the ship.

During the next 12 hours the monoplane was to circle above the airport, and the guards tonight were posted to keep constant lookout for signal flares, indicating that messages were expected to be dropped by Maj. Carl Spatz, commanding officer, on the plane.

The continuance of the flight for a total of 500 hours was declared a possibility by Army observers here, with the probable duration around 200 hours. The three 225-horsepower Wright whirling motors on their fourth day of ceaseless duty, carried the ship along in what had developed into a real test of endurance between man and machine.

Undaunted by the fatigue of the longest flight any one ever took in a heavier-than-air craft, Maj. Carl Spatz, flight commander, and his mates, gave no indication of being tired and signified their intention of landing only when the motors wore out.

Would Beat Zeppelin Record.

Having far eclipsed previous world's records for sustained flight in a heavier-than-air machine, the next goal was to beat the existing mark for lighter-than-air craft, established when the dirigible Graf Zeppelin made its notable journey last year from Germany to Lakehurst, N. J., requiring 111 hours and 46 minutes.

Distance has been no object in the flight of the Question Mark, which circles around over southern California.

IN PAY BILL FIGHT

Henry Miller Service, Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach.

LEHLBACH OPPOSES SENATE WAGE BILL

Brookhart Measure to Raise Salaries of U. S. Aids Is Facing Fight.

WELCH ACT RATES ISSUE

Another tug-of-war over legislation affecting the salaries of Washington's 60,000 Government workers now is in prospect. The legislation in question has to do with the inequalities in the Welch pay-raise act of the last session.

A fight was made almost certain yesterday when Chairman Lehlbach, of the House civil service committee, announced that he was opposed to the "common-sense" bill introduced the day before by Senator Brookhart, of Iowa.

Brookhart's bill provides $120 raises for those employees who got only $60, and $300 raises for those who got only $100. It further provides that these raises shall be retroactive, and that employees who were given their raises several weeks after the Welch act took effect shall be given back pay.

Lehlbach said yesterday that he was opposed to the Brookhart bill at the last session, and still is opposed to it. His own bill, he announced, would be ready to introduce early next week.

Brookhart's bill is the same one he introduced at the last session. It passed the Senate with votes to spare. Experts admit that if it had passed the House the confusion which now surrounds the Welch act would never have existed.

The bill undoubtedly would have passed the House had the members there had a chance to vote on it. But the House leaders were looking to Lehlbach for guidance. Lehlbach in turn was consulting with President Coolidge.

What happened was this: The House passed the Welch bill as amended by Lehlbach, which would have added about $18,000,000 to the Government pay roll. When it reached the Senate Brookhart amended it so that it was the same as the bill he introduced the other day, and the Senate passed it.

The bill then went to conference, where Lehlbach insisted on knocking out some of the salary ratings that Brookhart had put in. In the end most of Lehlbach's views prevailed, although Brookhart did succeed in adding about $3,000,000 to the costs in the bill.

Those who know Lehlbach and are familiar with his efforts to improve the lot of the Government worker did not criticize him for what he did. The fault was not his, they said; it was simply that he had to insist on a bill that would meet with the approval of the administration.

In any event, if the Senate passes the Brookhart bill again—and this it will

ANTIWAR PACT TO HAVE CLEAR PATH IN SENATE

Vare Case Will Not Be Used as Filibuster Move by Reed.

PASSAGE OF TREATY EXPECTED IN WEEK

Senator Borah Continues to Defend Terms of Kellogg Agreement.

By CARLISLE BARGERON. The constant small fire fire which Senator Borah and his Kellogg treaty have undergone in the Senate for two days began to peter out yesterday preparatory to the opening barrage of the big guns, perhaps today.

At the same time, the greatest menace to the treaty was removed when the Reed slush funds committee decided to give the representative of Senator-elect Vare an opportunity to study the evidence adduced by the committee, to examine its records and later to appear before the committee if they desire.

This means that Senator Reed, of Missouri, intends to press for disposition of the Vare case before he leaves the Senate March 4 but at the same time that he does not intend to use it as a filibustering instrument against the treaty. It is now believed, in fact, that the senator plans to do no more than speak against the treaty and vote against it that he does not hope to organize one of those die-hard fights of his.

Expect Passage in Week. This being the case the treaty will be passed when the Senate has talked itself out, maybe in another week. I do not mean to say that a separate resolution dealing with the Monroe Doctrine will not be subsequently passed also. This resolution, by Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, seems to be gaining recruits.

It had been feared that Reed planned to bring the Vare case in and with it, his highest privileged status delay action on the treaty if not endanger it.

At a meeting of the slush funds committee in the morning Vare's attorney, Francis S. Brown, and his physician, Dr. Elwood R. Kirby, testified that to bring the senator-elect before the committee now would mean his death. He will be all right in six months, they said.

Whereupon the committee met in the afternoon and decided that there was really no reason why Mr. Vare should come before the committee, that its investigation had been completed long ago. Consequently, it will let his representatives study the records of the committee, examine its work and cross-examine any witnesses it has had before it, after which the intimation is, it will make its report to the Senate. The senator-elect will be notified of this decision within the next four or five days. Senator Reed said in a statement after the afternoon hearing as to how much time will then elapse before the show down with the representatives is called for remains to be seen. Safe to say that it will come in ample time to permit of disposition by the Senate at this session.

Conflict With Treaty Avoided.

By this procedure, however, it will not come into conflict with the treaty. CONTINUED ON PAGE 3, COLUMN 2.

Hit-and-Run Driver Blamed in Killing

Victim, Found Lying Injured in Road, Dies After Reaching Hospital.

James R. Dorrey, 40 years old, Mechanicville, Md., died at the Providence Hospital at noon yesterday from injuries suffered at Mechanicville Thursday night when struck by a hit-and-run automobile, according to his brother-in-law, J. C. Williams, also of Mechanicville.

On information furnished by Williams, Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt issued a certificate that Dorrey received the injuries to the head, resulting in the death, when struck by an automobile driven by an unknown person. Magistrate Robert Burroughs, justice of the peace at Mechanicville, said he would conduct an investigation.

Dorrey was admitted to the hospital about 1:25 o'clock yesterday morning. Williams, who brought him there, said he found the injured man lying in the road, where he presumably had been knocked by a hit-and-run automobile Police of the Fifth Precinct, who conducted an investigation, learned the injured man had been brought to the hospital by Williams.

Representatives Catch Snake in Panama Canal

Panama, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Representatives William S. O'Brien, of West Virginia; S. Harrison White, of Colorado; William Williamson, of South Dakota; and Charles E. Winter, of Wyoming, after a luckless day fishing in Panama Bay caught a 18-foot bow constrictor swimming in the Panama Canal.

The snake was landed and put into a sack.

SAVING WOMAN FROM GALLOWS DIVIDES COURT

Louisiana Chief Justice Issues Stay; Other Judges Dissent.

SHERIFF, IN QUANDARY, HALTS HANGING TODAY

Mrs. Lehouef and Dr. Dreher Pronounced Sane; New Writ Called Void.

New Orleans, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Whether the hanging of Mrs. Ada Bonner Lehouef and Dr. Thomas E. Dreher will take place as scheduled tomorrow at Franklin became clouded in legal uncertainty tonight when Chief Justice Charles A. O'Neill, of the Louisiana Supreme Court, granted a stay of execution and four justices of the supreme court ruled that the hanging should be carried out.

The four justices, constituting a majority of the court, ordered the clerk of the court to inform Sheriff Charles Peot, of St. Mary Parish, to proceed with the hanging. The chief justice, however, held that the State constitution empowered him to grant a stay of execution.

Chief Justice O'Neill declared he had power to issue the writ over the majority, while the four dissenting members, Justices Overton, Brunot, Rogers and Land, held that as a majority their decision was final.

Sheriff Will Wait. Sheriff Peot said tonight at Franklin that he would not act "until the supreme court gets through unwinding itself."

"The way I feel now, I will not proceed with the execution tomorrow," he said.

Sheriff Peot said Justice Brunot talked with him over the telephone and told him of what the four justices had done, and that later Chief Justice O'Neill "took the telephone and told me he had signed a writ staying the executions and for me not to hang them."

Judge James D. Simon, the trial judge, who refused today at a hearing at Franklin to appoint a lunacy commission to determine the present sanity of the slayers, was ordered by the chief justice to appear before the supreme court to show cause why he should not appoint the commission. Commission Is Denied.

The man and the woman were to be hanged tomorrow between the hours of noon and 2 o'clock in the St. Mary Parish Jail at Franklin, La., for the murder in 1927 of James Lehouef, the woman's husband, on Lake Palourde, near Morgan City.

The defense received its second rebuff of the week when Judge Simon, of the district court of St. Mary Parish at Franklin, before whom the original case was tried, denied application for appointment of a lunacy commission to determine the present sanity of the slayers and thereby postpone execution.

Judge Simon ruled the law authorized him either to appoint a commission or determine sanity himself. He said he was prepared to hear any testimony, on the present sanity of the two condemned persons.

Witnesses Are Called.

Thereupon the attorneys produced numerous witnesses, who dictated affidavits in which they expressed the opinion that Dr. Dreher and Mrs. Lehouef were of unsound mind and had been for some time.

Judge Simon ordered a recess and then came back with a written opinion in which he held that both of the prisoners were at the present time sane.

Defense attorneys, including Ben J. Daily, of New Orleans; L. O. Peot and James R. Parkerson, of Franklin immediately started machinery for an appeal to the supreme court for a suspensive appeal that would stay the execution and for a writ of certiorari or a mandamus to bring Judge Simon before the supreme court to show cause why a lunacy commission should not be appointed.

One of their representatives here filed the papers in the supreme court a few hours after Judge Simon's opinion had been given and the attorneys started CONTINUED ON PAGE 5, COLUMN 5.

Mellon Reported Buyer of Madonna

London Hears Secretary Paid $970,000 for Raphael's Masterpiece.

London, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The Daily Mail tomorrow will say that Andrew J. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, has purchased for $200,000 (about $970,000), Raphael's "Madonna," known as the "Cowper Madonna."

The well-known art dealer, Sir Joseph Duveen, last may paid Lady Desborough $176,000 for the famous painting which bears Raphael's signature and the date 1508. This was a record price for a painting, but in eight months the dealer has added $25,000, which is his profit. Lady Desborough acquired the masterpiece upon the death of the Earl of Cowper.

They were sent to jail by Circuit Court Judge Howard W. Smith after they had struck Percy Fields, plaintiff, and victor in a suit tried yesterday in Arlington Circuit Court, in which he sought and won possession of the dog.

Today Mrs. Louie and her daughter will be haled before the police court and efforts will be made to place them under peace bonds. This action was decreed by Judge Smith after he had fined each of the women $25 for contempt and had ordered them to jail for the night.

In addition, Miss Howard must explain why she has District of Columbia tags on her automobile instead of Virginia plates. This charge was pressed CONTINUED ON PAGE 5, COLUMN 7.

Cyanide Kills U. S. Printer, In Toils in Counterfeit Plot

W. H. Meyers, 50, Foreman at Federal Office, Dies in Police Auto; Autopsy Reveals Poison; Engraving Plates of Railroad Tickets Found in His Desk.

A few minutes after he had been arrested yesterday for investigation in connection with what headquarters detectives believe to be a cleverly devised counterfeitplot, William H. Meyers, 50 years old, a foreman at the Government Printing Office, died from cyanide poisoning in the headquarters automobile.

Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, deputy coroner, performed an autopsy on Meyers' body yesterday afternoon and announced that there was ample evidence that the man died from a dose of the deadly poison and not from a heart attack, as was at first thought. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt was undecided last night whether he would order an inquest or issue a certificate of death by suicide.

Meyers, whose home was in Baltimore, Md., was being taken to detective headquarters by Detective Sergeant Harry A. Cole, following his arrest at the printing office about 11:30 o'clock, when he was seized with a coughing spell.

He put a handkerchief to his mouth, swallowed laboriously several times, began frothing at the mouth and in the next minute collapsed, Cole said. Cole ordered the automobile driven to Emergency Hospital, believing Meyers to be suffering from a fit. He was pronounced dead, however, shortly after he was treated by Dr. Walter Gladding. Dr. Gladding said he believed Meyers' death to have resulted from a heart attack, superinduced by excitement incident to his arrest.

The detective bureau had been investigating Meyers for several days, following the discovery in his desk at the printing office of several plates, which Meyers is alleged to have used in printing spurious commutation tickets, entitling the holder to transportation on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad between Washington and Baltimore. The tickets sold for $21.

The plates, detectives said, were considered the most cleverly made counterfeit plates ever discovered in Washington. Railroad officials are investigating to determine whether any of the spurious tickets have been sold in Washington and Baltimore. An investigation into Meyers' death was ordered by Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, chief of the homicide squad, who was not satisfied with the original belief that Meyers was a victim of heart trouble. Dr. Rogers' autopsy bore out the homicide chief's belief.

John F. Luitich, 57, Dies, Mangled by Motor Fleeing Officer.

FIRE FAILS TO HALT MAD CAREER OF CAR

Two, Taken With Machine Charged to Contain Liquor, Are Held.

INJURIES ARE FATAL TO FEDERAL WORKER

Government Printing Office Employee Dies in Hospital of Fractured Skull.

A whiskey-laden automobile pursued by a policeman caused the death last night of John F. Luitich, 57-year-old Government printer and former amateur baseball player. Luitich died at 11:35 o'clock at Freedman's Hospital from a fractured skull, compound fractures of both legs and an arm two hours after he had been struck down by the motor car at P and North Capitol streets and dragged 100 feet.

Robert Darrell Dixon, colored, 34 years old, of 1438 Third street northwest, and William Alfred Hoffman, colored, 32 years old, of 1438 North street northwest, were arrested a few minutes after the accident by the pursuing policeman.

Manslaughter Is Charged. Dixon, said to have been the driver, was charged with reckless driving, leaving after colliding with a pedestrian, transporting and illegal possession of whiskey and manslaughter. Hoffman was charged with manslaughter and illegal possession of whiskey.

The two negroes were arrested by Metropolitan Officer W. A. Schlotter, of the Traffic Bureau, after a thrilling chase which began before the accident and terminated afterward, several blocks away. During the chase the officer fired several shots at the fugitive automobile.

According to the report of the accident filed at Traffic Bureau headquarters by Officer Schlotter the automobile, at the time it struck down Luitich, was moving at high speed on the wrong side of the street and had just run past a traffic "stop" sign.

Victim Had No Hearing. Luitich was heard of hearing and this is believed to have been responsible in a measure for his falling to get out of the way. He is believed to have been taking his regular evening walk and to have been en route to his home when struck.

One hundred and sixteen pints of corn whiskey were found in the automobile, police said.

Schlotter's story of the chase and the fatal accident as recorded on the books at the Traffic Bureau is substantially as follows:

Schlotter was riding east on Q street northwest about 8 o'clock last night when he espied a small touring car bearing District of Columbia plates moving east on Q. Schlotter trailed the car, and became suspicious when the companion of the driver continued to look back and seemed in the act of warning the driver.

Drove Fast Stop Sign. At New Jersey avenue northwest the automobile failed to heed a traffic "stop" sign and turned south into that thoroughfare, at the same time speeding up.

Schlotter continued in pursuit and near P street pulled alongside. At P street the automobile made a sharp left turn in what Schlotter described as an unsuccessful effort to hurl him from his motor bike.

The car speeded up on P street. At North Capitol street the automobile struck down Luitich who had just stepped from the curb and "dragged him 150 feet."

Without slowing up the automobile proceeded east on P street with Schotter now in hot pursuit. At first street northeast the automobile turned and continued south on that artery. At this point Schotter drew his gun and fired several shots.

At the intersection of First and I streets Schotter pulled alongside the machine, covered the driver with his gun and ordered him to stop. The command was complied with and Schotter, leaping from his machine, seized the driver. The other occupant of the automobile leaped out and ran, but was overtaken and captured by Raymond Goodman, of 610 H street northeast who was walking in the neighborhood.

Auto Listed as Woman's.

The car's occupants were taken to No. 2 Police Station, where the automobile and the whisky were stored as evidence. Investigation revealed that the automobile is listed in the name of Ethel Campbell, colored, of 43 Q street northwest.

Luitich was picked up and carried to Freedman's Hospital. He was treated by Dr. H. L. Ashley and Dr. C. E. Andrews of the hospital staff. The doctors despaired of saving his life from the beginning, and had the injured man's family notified as soon as a preliminary examination had shown his injuries were critical.

Managed Baseball Club.

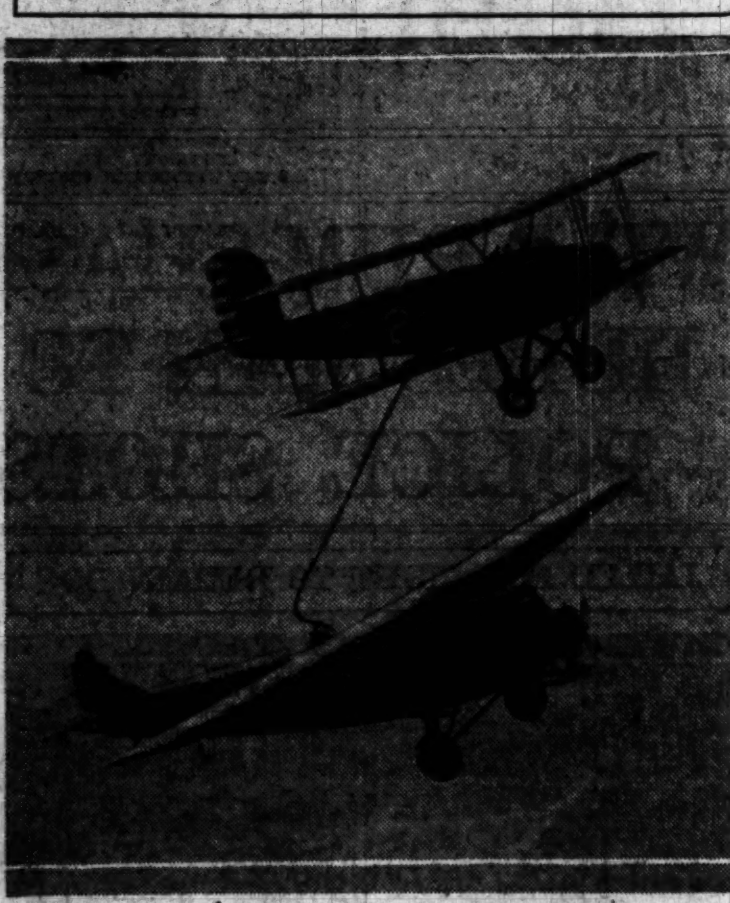

Luitich was formerly widely known in amateur baseball circles. He managed the Aloysius Club of the old Capital City League. He also managed the Union Printers Team, winning Washington's first pennant in the Pittsburgh tournament in 1913.

He was also widely known among members of the printing trade in Washington, having been connected with the Government Printing Office for a score of years.

Luitich was employed at the Government Printing Office, and had lived at 100 I street northwest for the past four years. His wife lives at 19 Bates street northwest. He had three children, Lucille and Laurence Luitich, stage dancers, formerly on the Keith circuit, and a son, Alfred Luitich, of New York.

Luitich celebrated his birthday yesterday. According to his wife, he was hard of hearing, but always had been extraordinarily careful when crossing the streets. He was taking his evening walk when struck down.

BRITON IS ACCUSED IN AFGHAN UPRISING

Authorities Order Arrest of Col. T. E. Lawrence, Noted as Adventurer.

NEW ATTACK IS PLANNED

Allahabad, India, Jan. 4 (United Press).—Afghan authorities have ordered the arrest of Col. Thomas E. Lawrence, famous British adventurer and army officer, on the belief that he has been assisting rebels in the present uprising to cross the frontier, according to advices received here tonight.

Lawrence, known as "Lawrence of Arabia," because of his war-time adventures, was described by authorities as "the archetypal of the world."

Photographs, supposed to be of Lawrence, were distributed among Afghan army commanders.

It was reported from Delhi that rumors were current concerning plans for a fresh assault on Kabul, capital of Afghanistan, which was successfully defended recently by government troops when insurgents attacked. The rebel tribesmen revolted against King Amanullah's reform laws.

The brigand leader, Bacoa Sakai, was said to be collecting a fresh force of insurgents for a march on Kabul.

Life of Man, Held Legally Dead 67 Years, Ends at 90

Civil War Veteran Passes Away on Eve of Being Reestablished as Citizen and Soldier; Lost His Memory After Fredericksburg Battle; Lived in Shack for Years.

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—he grew older the difficulty of being legally dead became apparent. He was ineligible for a pension, and had lost track of relatives who might have cared for him with advancing age. For years he lived in a lonely shack on the outskirts of Oakland. Then a brother went to his aid, and Representative A. M. Carter, of Alameda County, prepared a bill to restore Perry to his Civil War status. Carter had planned to introduce the bill today. An earlier fight to induce the Pension Bureau to take cognizance of the aged man's plight had failed.

Blind and suffering from arthritis, Perry applied to the Alameda County Hospital Thanksgiving Day and was given treatment. Last week relatives in San Francisco took him, and today death called. To the last Perry never gave up hope that the 67 years' accumulation of governmental red tape would be finally cut, but it was not until Representative Carter was interested in the case that success seemed near.

Friends here called attention to the fact that Congress might, by an ironical circumstance, proceed to declare Perry living unless Carter is speedily informed of his death.

Apparently the situation had taken a serious turn. The Quetta telegraph line had been cut and only wireless communication with Kabul remained. The escape of Mohammed Omar Khan, aspirant for the throne of Afghanistan, from Allahabad, added to the complexity of the situation. Omar Khan had been retained here by British authorities.

Viola Gentry to Make New Endurance Flight

Martinsville, Va., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Miss Viola Gentry, who yesterday announced that she would attempt another endurance flight over Roosevelt Field, Long Island, on January 25.

Miss Gentry, on a flight from New York to Martinsville, yesterday forced down by strong head winds at Martinsville, and continued her journey to Martinsville, her home, in an automobile to keep a banquet engagement last night.

"Lindy's Girl" Bride of Cleveland, Ohio, Man

Chicago, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—"Lindy's Girl," as she used to call her, Harold Knop now.

The pretty brown-eyed daughter of the Albert Longley at whose home Col. Charles A. Lindbergh roomed when he was just plain, was married yesterday to Mr. Knop.

Miss Knop were to arrive by automobile today at Cleveland, Ohio, where they will make their home. When Col. Lindbergh lived at the Longley home, Miss Knop often assisted in preparing his breakfast.

$17,350 Suit Against Aimee McPherson Lost

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—A judgment in favor of Aimee McPherson, defendant in the suit of A. F. Leitch, Hollywood architect, for $17,350 for "services," was handed down in superior court this morning.

The court decision brought the action to a sudden close after the plaintiff's counsel had moved for a dismissal of the case at the opening of court.

Leitch had claimed that the architect employed him to draw plans for a temple, but that the plans had been prepared, but that he never had been paid.

RICKARD NEAR DEATH FOLLOWING RELAPSE

Second Operation on Noted Promoter Is Performed Late at Night.

DR. MAYO NOT TO HELP

Miami, Fla., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Tex Rickard, president of Madison Square Garden, was believed to be near death at Allison Hospital, Miami Beach, tonight. The famous promoter, who underwent an operation Tuesday evening for appendicitis, suddenly took a decided turn for the worse at midnight and physicians are working to save his life.

At 12:45 a.m. Mr. Rickard was gradually growing weaker, after a second operation had been performed late tonight. The statement was made at the hospital by authority of Dr. H. E. Atkins, who is in charge of the case.

Dr. Atkins performed the first operation upon Rickard Tuesday night, removing the appendix. Rickard had been taken to the hospital Tuesday afternoon after he had complained that morning of suffering from a severe pain in his right side. He had believed at first that he had suffered an attack of indigestion.

Dr. Atkins said he had called Dr. William Mayo in Havana to join him as a consultant in the case as a precautionary measure. Advice from Havana late today said Dr. Mayo is in the interior of Cuba and could not be located.

Physicians have refused to permit any one to see Rickard except Mrs. Rickard, who is in constant attendance at her husband's bedside.

Jack Dempsey was refused admittance to the sick room on account of the promoter's religious beliefs. Rumors that Tex was near death caused a wild rush of messages today from New York and Chicago to learn the truth of the reports.

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Dr. Mundo tonight quoted Dr. William Mayo, Rochester, Minn., specialist, as saying he would not go to the bedside of Tex Rickard, New York promoter, at Allison Hospital, in a telephone conversation with the newspaper, the specialist who is touring Oriente Province, declared. The newspaper said that in his opinion Rickard's condition was such that his services would be of no benefit.

Missing Police Chief Going West, Wife Hears

Albany, Ga., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—E. S. Cowan, who was deposed as chief of police of Albany shortly after he had mysteriously disappeared several days ago, and whose whereabouts since had been made the subject of much speculation, notified his wife here today that he was safe and that he was "going West."

The former chief of police dropped out of sight shortly after City Manager C. O. Wright requested him to assist in an audit of departmental records. The audit was begun yesterday, and officials said it had so far revealed no irregularities. Cowan also had been notified by the city commission that his services would not be required after the first of the year.

Policeman Found Lying Senseless

Curtis Carter, Suspended on Intoxication Charge After Wild Taxi Ride.

Found unconscious on the sidewalk at Tenth and E streets southeast last night, Policeman Curtis Carter, of the Fifth Precinct, was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he was declared by physicians to be suffering from intoxication. He was suspended from duty by Night Inspector Lieut. O. T. Davis and locked up at the Fifth Precinct on a charge of intoxication.

He was found lying face down on the sidewalk by H. W. Hickman, of 406 Ninth street southeast, who hailed a cab driven by Milton E. Basel, of 1519 Good Hope road southeast. Basel took Carter, who lives at Silver Hill, Md., to the hospital. Lieut. Davis said Carter would be held before the police trial board.

In the dash from the spot where Carter was found to the hospital the taxi cab took a course through the central part of the city, knocking up Pennsylvania avenue 50 miles an hour, its horn blowing and Hickman waving a handkerchief from the front seat. It attracted the attention of Motorcycles Policemen E. D. Gensmy, of the Sixth Precinct, who pursued it to the hospital. Gensmy, chasing the supposed joy-rides, lost his cap and almost came to grief when his machine skidded at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.

FLU GERMS STOLEN; GRAVE RESULT SEEN

Millions of Microbes Sought
by Scotland Yard in Five Looted Tubes.

MAY START AN EPIDEMIC

London, Jan. 4 (U.P.).—Scotland Yard was on the trail of "millions of influenza germs" tonight after Dr. M. R. Brady had informed authorities that there was danger of widespread illness if glass culture tubes, which were stolen from him, were broken and the germs released.

A number of tubes were stolen by an unknown thief this afternoon when the bacteriologist, Dr. W. M. Crofton, left them unguarded in Brady's automobile. No trace of the thief had been found at a late hour.

If the tubes are broken there is undoubtedly danger that the contents will cause an influenza epidemic, Brady said. "The cold weather probably will kill the germs if they were exposed to the air, but in warm houses or indoors or in a warm atmosphere the germs would survive and multiply." Dr. Crofton had placed the germs in the automobile which was parked in the fashionable West End district. When the physicians returned to the machine later the tubes were gone.

"Inasmuch as the germs spread most easily when dried," continued Brady, "it is obvious that, if the culture tubes are dropped in a warm spot, it is likely that they would dry quickly and become pulverized. Then while the germs were still alive they would spread rapidly by wind. On the contrary, if they fell in a cold spot the culture probably would remain liquid and only physical contact would start an epidemic."

No reason for the theft could be advanced except that the thief might have mistaken the tubes for drugs. The germs were contained in five tubes. "If these are opened in a thickly populated district, the danger will be serious," Brady said. "Hundreds of persons will run the risk of catching the influenza. The theft also may endanger the lives of patients or seriously retard recovery."

Ill Woman Dies Hour After Spouse's Suicide

Memphis, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. W. K. Sibley, 51, died early today of influenza-pneumonia an hour after her husband had killed himself, presumably because of worry over her illness. The couple lived in Meridian, Miss., and had come to Memphis for a holiday visit with Mrs. Sibley's relatives.

Mrs. Sibley was stricken Christmas day. Late last night he told her she had slight chance of recovery. Going into her room he sat beside her and was heard to say: "Anna, I can't live without you." Then he went to the bathroom and shot himself. Mrs. Sibley died without knowing of the tragedy.

Husband Kills Wife For Laugh; Shoots Self

Vandergrift, Pa., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Samuel E. Hill, 38, shot and killed his wife early today and then committed suicide. Three children, hearing the shots, found the bodies. Clarence Hill, 11, a son, told police his mother and father quarreled last night. Early today he said, his father arose. The father showed him where to find money to take the other children to visit an aunt in Presport.

Returning to the bedroom, the boy said, his father told his mother, "You laugh again, I'll kill you." Two shots followed. Both the husband and wife were shot through the heart.

Gloucester, King's Son, Thrown by His Horse

Melton Mowbray, England, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The stumbling of his horse threw the Duke of Gloucester, third son of King George, into a muddy brook today. He was hunting with the Quorn hounds.

The duke landed expertly on his feet and escaped injury. After the mud had been scraped off his face and clothing, he remounted and rejoined his hunting companions.

The duke has often been spoken of as the best rider in the royal family.

SEEK DELAY FOR VARE AT CAPITOL

E. A. Kelly, attorney (left); Dr. E. R. Kirby, physician, and F. Shunk Brown, chief attorney, as they appeared at the Capitol yesterday after seeking from the Reed election expenditures committee of the Senate a further delay for the appearance for questioning of their client, Senator-elect William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, who is recuperating in Florida.

It is possible that it may get in the way of the cruiser bill but inasmuch as Reed is favorable to this measure this is doubtful.

Yesterday's session on the treaty was a repetition of the day before. Senator Borah remained on his feet virtually all of the four-hour session. Reed, Johnson, Barkley, Glass, Swanson, Walsh, of Montana, Caraway and McLean and others got into the debate. Again it centered around the right of self-defense and Borah insisted, until he was blue in the face and his sparse hair divided into loose strands, that neither this nation's right of self-defense nor any other nation's was impaired. At one time he said: "If we don't find a way to preserve peace civilization is imperiled as it has not been since the evening of the Dark Ages."

Senator Reed asserted that through correspondence, Egypt, Persia, Afghanistan, Hungary, Roumania and France had made reservations.

"It is perfectly plain," he said, "that many constructions have already been placed on the treaty and there is already a dispute over its meaning."

Borah sticks to his guns. But the Idahoan stuck to his argument that there can be correspondence from now until doomsday but the treaty is in that they had not yet decided whether they would accept it or not. He said that the Idahoan's answer that there is no necessity for it.

Johnston, who knows the Chamberlain note was not a reservation. "I don't think the note gives Great Britain any right under the treaty which it would not have had if that note had not been written," the Idahoan replied. "It is merely a consideration of Great Britain's idea of self-defense."

"But some statesman in Great Britain deemed it wise to set forth his country's view of this treaty," Johnston replied. "Borah insists that the British through the Chamberlain note had really limited their definition of self-defense in that they had not yet decided whether they would accept it or not. He said that the Idahoan's answer that there is no necessity for it."

Self-Defense Not Involved. Secretary Kellogg, Borah explained, had not mentioned the Doctrine in his correspondence "because he considered that Doctrine a part of our country's self-defense, and he has always maintained that the right of self-defense is not involved in this treaty."

Swanson, Glass and Caraway questioned.

RADIO, VICTOR VOTE $500,000,000 UNION

Huge Merger Joins Former Rivals in Developing Broad Field Together.

NEW FINANCING PLANNED

New York, Jan. 4 (United Press).—A gigantic merger of momentous import to the future of broadcasting, phonographs, talking motion pictures and the public to which all three cater were announced today. It involves the Radio Corporation of America and the Victor Talking Machine Co. In terms of money, the unification means the combination of approximately $600,000,000. In general terms, of interest to the public, the merger is intended to bring the three big methods of providing mechanical entertainment.

Radio already had gone into the "talker" business. Now the patents of the phonograph company will be brought into use to the fullest extent in developing radio broadcasting and talking pictures, while in its own field the phonograph will be developed with the aid of the other departments in the merged company.

Radio Advances 200 in Year. Perhaps the most romantic side of the merger is the rise of the Radio Corporation. Five years ago its stock sold for $10 a share. Today it closed at $305. It has risen, roughly, 200 points in a year.

An approximate total of the capital involved in the unification follows:

RADIO CORPORATION.
Common stock, value at 10-
day's close.....$45,383,000
Preferred stock, par value.....19,779,870
Total.....$65,162,870

VICTOR TALKING MACHINE.
Common stock, value at 10-
day's close.....$29,284,279
Preferred stock, par value.....12,188,700
Total.....$41,472,979

Grand total.....$106,635,849

Actually, the total is greater, the preferred stocks selling a little above par. As to the stock market aspect of the merger, there is to be a five-for-one split of new stock for old common stock. This will be a greater floating supply of stock, and it is expected that "technical" reasons, such as instances, if not all, will be eliminated. These have caused fast moves up and down in the stock.

Voted at Separate Meetings. The merger was agreed upon at separate meetings of the boards of directors of the two companies. With the announcement of the merger, executives of both issued statements regarding the unification.

"The unification definitely enlarges the fields of radio and the phonograph, and adds to the services which both can render," said David Sarnoff, executive vice president of the Radio Co. "It is clear that in the new era of electrical entertainment, now expressed in broadcasting in talking motion pictures and in theater installations, radio and the phonograph play distinct but complementary parts. The permanent success of both industries is dependent upon the future development of electrical entertainment in the home and in the theater."

"In the reproduction of music and other forms of entertainment for the home the modern phonograph has considerable advantages which will be used to a wide range of programs of music and speech, made possible by the permanent recording. Radio, on the other hand, has the advantage of being able to reach a vast audience, devoted primarily to current musical, educational and news events."

Sees New Vista for Artists. He added that phonograph patents would be made available to the artists, and that a new vista for artists, with all three fields of expression.

Stock change, planned include: Issue of $500,000,000 of common stock, of which 5,777,000 is to be exchanged for old common at the rate of new for one old. The 7 per cent A preferred will remain unchanged, and $13,000,000 of cumulative B preferred will be issued at a $5 annual dividend rate. One share of new Radio common and 1 share of Victor common will be exchanged for one share of the old stock of Victor. Victor depositors of their old stock will receive a $5 cash bonus. Both classes of Victor preferred will be retired.

17,000 Women and Girls Sold in Chinese Famine

Peking, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The Rev. F. J. Griffith of the Church of the Holy Mission at Tientsin in the Province of Shanhai has reported to the International Relief Committee that more than 17,000 women and girls have been sold because of famine destitution.

"Many villages have been stripped of women and girls who were sold into slavery," he reported. "More than 17,000 have passed through the Yunnan province, and many have been sold into slavery. Many have been sold into slavery. Many have been sold into slavery."

Brigands were active, he said, adding that he had seen a caravan carrying a caravan of 1,000 camels loaded with rice for the famine-stricken people.

Breaks Into Liquor Vender's
Home and Shoots Man as
Wife Looks On.

LAD, 17, THEN ENDS LIFE

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 4 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Orin H. Hoover, 17-year-old high school student here, fatally shot a neighbor last night because the man, Joseph Skablauckas, 38, had sold his father a pint of liquor on New Year's Eve. He then killed himself with the same weapon.

The motive for the youth's act was brought out at the coroner's inquest. Neighbors of both families testified that Orin, since his mother's death 5 years ago, had repeatedly upbraided his father for drinking, saying, "You know mother would not have liked it."

On the night of December 31, Sheriff Patterson learned, after 24 hours' investigation, Orin took his brother Robert's revolver from a nail in the bedroom wall and set out for Skablauckas' cottage on Elmwood Lake, three miles north of here. The dead man's widow described what took place when the youth arrived there. She and her husband were in bed, she said, when they heard a noise at the kitchen door. They got up to investigate.

As they moved toward the rear of the house, carrying a lighted lamp, the door was yanked open and a window in an inside door smashed in. The lamp revealed Orin at the door, his revolver raised, turned up and his cap pulled forward.

"I am Hoover's son," he announced. "What is the meaning of this?" Mrs. Skablauckas asked, pointing to the broken window.

"This is the meaning," the youth answered, pointing at the husband. "Let him go. He is a drunkard." "Before the husband could speak, Mrs. Skablauckas said, Orin Hoover whipped out a revolver and fired three times. As her husband crumpled to the floor the boy turned the revolver on himself.

BOY KILLS FOR SALE OF PINT-TO FATHER

Breaks Into Liquor Vender's
Home and Shoots Man as
Wife Looks On.

LAD, 17, THEN ENDS LIFE

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 4 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Orin H. Hoover, 17-year-old high school student here, fatally shot a neighbor last night because the man, Joseph Skablauckas, 38, had sold his father a pint of liquor on New Year's Eve. He then killed himself with the same weapon.

The motive for the youth's act was brought out at the coroner's inquest. Neighbors of both families testified that Orin, since his mother's death 5 years ago, had repeatedly upbraided his father for drinking, saying, "You know mother would not have liked it."

On the night of December 31, Sheriff Patterson learned, after 24 hours' investigation, Orin took his brother Robert's revolver from a nail in the bedroom wall and set out for Skablauckas' cottage on Elmwood Lake, three miles north of here. The dead man's widow described what took place when the youth arrived there. She and her husband were in bed, she said, when they heard a noise at the kitchen door. They got up to investigate.

As they moved toward the rear of the house, carrying a lighted lamp, the door was yanked open and a window in an inside door smashed in. The lamp revealed Orin at the door, his revolver raised, turned up and his cap pulled forward.

"I am Hoover's son," he announced. "What is the meaning of this?" Mrs. Skablauckas asked, pointing to the broken window.

"This is the meaning," the youth answered, pointing at the husband. "Let him go. He is a drunkard." "Before the husband could speak, Mrs. Skablauckas said, Orin Hoover whipped out a revolver and fired three times. As her husband crumpled to the floor the boy turned the revolver on himself.

THE EARLY 1929 PHOTOPLAYS

JANET GAYNOR PERMITS ROLE TO PLAY SELF

Nine out of ten motion picture actors, if one were to believe their press agents, were educated in exclusive schools, showed talent at the mature age of 8 months, always had confidence that sooner or later they would reach the top rung of the film ladder and showed indomitable courage by starting at the bottom of their profession, working, like industrial magnates, to gain recognition. It is because of these "backneyed" "success stories" that the modest recital of Janet Gaynor's rise in picture making refreshing reading.

Miss Gaynor, whose performance in "Fog", the William Fox production which will be the attraction at the Fox Theater beginning today, marks her as leader in her profession, attributes her success to the faith and help which her stepfather bestowed on her.

The stepfather, whom Miss Gaynor refers to affectionately as "Jonesty," wanted more than anything to see her name blazoned in electric lights. When she starred in "Seventh Heaven," his wish was fulfilled. He did not, however, have the pleasure of seeing her billed as the star of "Fog" because he died about eight months ago.

When Janet moved to Hollywood with her family in 1924 she wasn't greatly excited about the prospect of becoming an actress. While she was attending Polytechnic High School in San Francisco she worked nights as an usher in the Castro Theater. "There she had seen the figures upon the screen but never thought about being one of them."

However, "Jonesty" was so sure that she was cut out for the motion picture business that she took a fling at it.

"Jonesty" was so certain that I could make good that I had no choice but to try it," Janet explains.

"My friends all tell me that I have reached the top, but I don't know yet whether I can act. I didn't do any acting in 'Seventh Heaven.' I merely lived through the role. Why, I didn't even have to think of what I was supposed to do. I merely did it, in my natural manner."

MME. GLYN HAS FIXED OPINIONS OF WEEK-ENDS

Miss Glyn, famous for her love stories, which include "Three Weeks," "The Hour," and the two overwhelming Clara Bow picture successes, "It" and "Red-Headed Woman," is the author of Clara Bow's latest picture, "Three Week Ends," now playing at Loew's Palace.

Here she gives her views on personality. "I think Clara Bow has the most fascinating and vivid personality of any woman in motion pictures today," said Miss Glyn, famous authoress, in a recent interview.

"Can real, endurable love be born over three week-ends? Certainly, because, if the vibrations of each person are in perfect harmony, love is a matter of the first glance."

"How can a girl apply her week-ends to the greatest personal advantage? By keeping her eye on the ball and not forgetting what she wants in the swamp of emotion."

"Should a girl marry a man after knowing him for only three week-ends? It altogether depends upon the man's character. If he is a casual come and go who has made love to all her friends, certainly not. But if he seems to have a strong and reasonable point of view, since all marriage is such a trolley in these days, and divorce so easy, she might as well take happiness when she can."

On the stage Wesley Eddy and the Palace Orchestra are presented in "Just Kids," the celebrated cartoonist, and creator of "Just Kids," the comic strip, is here in person and the set of entertainers includes Al Gale, Anna Chang, Cecile Blair, Robert O'Connor, Edna Matthews, Charlotte Brander and the Goid Girls.

The orchestra offering is "The Enchantress," with motion and color. The Fox Movietone News and the M-G-M News are presented as usual. As a special added attraction, the first sound novelty in color is presented with Gus Edwards, the star maker, in a revue of musical memories.

TALK DESIGNED TO PROMOTE AN EASIER GRASP

The services of Dr. Daniel Martin, eminent speaker and well known in the District, have been added to the program featuring "Unwelcome Children," current at the President Theater.

Dr. Martin for many years has been connected with the Radcliff System of Chautauque, during which time he has spoken in 3,500 towns and cities through 30 States. For the most part he has spoken before high school and college students.

In addition to his activities in that organization, he was appointed to serve on the second Wilson inaugural committee and later during that administration served several presidential appointments. His talk in connection with the sound film, "Unwelcome Children," does not reveal the story. The management has engaged him to help the audience accept the picture as one of the world's greatest social problems in the manner in which it is given—that of an educational subject.

In this country, supposedly ultra-modern, this vitally important question has been hidden from public discussion, and it is only now that it has been brought to the attention of the general public. Dr. Martin's short, concise speech, enables the audience to see this offering in an honest light.

HAZEL ARTH IN SOUND NEWS AT METROPOLITAN

Taking its place as the most tensely gripping all-talking film ever made, "On Trial," the new Warner Bros. Vitaphone production at the Metropolitan Theater for a second week, presents an entire murder trial with every word of the proceedings spoken by the characters.

As the details of the surprising case are skillfully brought out by the attorneys, the tension produced in the audience is remarkable, and furnishes a convincing demonstration of the effectiveness of the Vitaphone.

The cast which interprets this dramatic screen play is no less remarkable than the story itself, and includes such film favorites as Pauline Frederick, Bert Lytell, Lois Wilson, Holmes Herbert, Jason Robards, Richard Tucker, Johnny Arthur, Vondra Darr, Edmund Breese, Edward Martin, Fred Kelsey and Franklin Pangborn.

In "On Trial," Pauline Frederick is cast as the wife of the murdered man; Bert Lytell as the friend who is on trial for his killing—while Lois Wilson impersonates the wife of Lytell.

"On Trial," as a talking picture, seems destined even to exceed the popularity which it enjoyed on the stage, where it has been looked upon as an outstanding example of what may be termed the modern school of drama. The original play, written by Elmer Rice, was adapted for the screen by Robert Lord, and directed by Archie L. Mayo. Record crowds are attending performances of "On Trial" at the Metropolitan Theater.

The supplementary features are "Stage Struck," in which the animation of the characters made famous by Paul Terry are synchronized with sound effects and music. A new Pathe Review and the latest issue of Pathe Sound News, which features the exclusive appearance of Hazel C. Arth, winner of the Alwater Kent National Radio Audition.

COLLEEN MOORE TREATS CROOKS WITH CONTEMPT

There is certainly nothing synthetic about the entertainment offered in "Synthetic Sin," Colleen Moore's newest comedy, which is the current screen offering at the Earle Theater.

On the contrary, it is decidedly of the 100-proof variety. A clever story, an excellent cast and Colleen's bubbling personality have been woven into a picture that ranks among the most humorously entertaining films to be seen in months. "Synthetic Sin" is a triple triumph for Colleen as the star, William A. Selter as the director and Fredrick and Fanny Hatton, authors of the play from which the picture was taken.

The characterization in which Miss Moore appears is perfectly suited to her ability and personality, her role being that of an innocent Southern girl who masquerades as a disreputable woman of the world in order to obtain experience that will suit her for a career as a dramatic actress. The story follows the adventures of this synthetic little sinner in New York's underworld, where she becomes involved in both romance and hilarious melodrama that carry this interesting story to a whirlwind finish.

Possibly the most amusing of many laughable sequences is one in which Colleen's apartment is invaded by thugs and gunmen in the midst of a gang war. Believing her friends have played a joke on her, Colleen refuses to take the desperate characters seriously, and treats them with the most amusing lack of respect, despite their weapons and threats.

Antonio Moreno has the romantic lead opposite Miss Moore, while others in the excellent cast are Montagu Love, Gertrude Astor, Edythe Chapman and Kathryn McGuire.

THE HOUSE OF STONE HITS LOEW'S COLUMBIA

Loew's Columbia inaugurated the new year with the presentation of the Paramount all-talking production "Interference," starring William Powell, Olive Brook, Evelyn Brent and Doris Kenyon. The picture was adapted from the stage play of the same name, which had a long run both here and abroad.

The story concerns a man who comes back from the dead and is discovered by an old fiancée. She pleads to be taken back, but it seems that the man, for once in his life, is really in love with his wife, whom he married before going to war, where he was reported killed in action. His wife has since remarried. His cast-off love jealously seeks revenge by blackmailing the wife—now the bride of an eminent surgeon. Powell goes to the surgeon where he discovers his wife and finds that she is supremely happy. After discovering that he is suffering from an incurable heart ailment, he resolves to make amends by retrieving some letters with which the wife is threatened by the jealous one. He does it in a most unusual way. The surgeon, because of the events that follow, comes under the suspicion of the police, and is saved by the last worthy gesture on the part of the villain.

The remainder of the program is also all-talking, or sound, and includes the famous Eddie Cantor and Ruth Etting, of "Whoopee." The Fox Movietone News, the M-G-M News and contributions by the Columbia Orchestra, under the direction of Claude Burrows.

ADDITIONAL TREATY
READY TO BE SIGNEDPan-American Conference to Conclude Session This Afternoon.

4 AGREEMENTS APPROVED

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The Pan-American Conference will conclude its work at a plenary session at 3 o'clock this afternoon, after having achieved results which further cement peace between the American republics. The treaty on arbitration, the protocol on progressive arbitration, the treaty on conciliation, and the protocol to provide for the settlement of the dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay were approved yesterday at the final session of the conference.

Both the developments scheduled for today and those of yesterday were forecast as a matter of course after the conference committee decided all major points in their meetings on Friday. The question of reservations to be offered by a majority of the Latin American states to the arbitration treaty will be a factor when the treaty is signed today, but it will not be possible to accurately measure the scope of extent of these reservations until the pact is finally ratified. Some of the reservations may be withheld until that time while others now suggested may be withdrawn.

Seven Ask No Reservations.

The United States, Cuba, Panama, Haiti, Nicaragua, Peru and Chile comprised the list accepting the treaty without reservations so far as the arbitration pact was concerned, but this list may remain intact today. Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Bolivia, Uruguay, Venezuela, Honduras, Mexico, Colombia, Paraguay, Salvador and Ecuador announced their intention of accepting the treaty with reservations. There is a tendency on the part of these countries to insist that matters affecting pecuniary claims remain within the jurisdiction of the courts of the respective countries and become international matters subject to arbitration only in case there appears to be a denial of justice after the courts have dealt with them. The position of the United States and those countries which are following American leadership in this matter is that pecuniary claims may be subject to arbitration at any time that there appears to be a denial of justice, either before or after Latin American or American courts have dealt with them.

Suggested reservations to make the treaty apply to future controversies and not to controversies which have their roots in the past are still undisposed of and Mexico is understood to be considering a reservation to the effect that private claims must first be passed on by the courts before becoming subjects of arbitration. Each sovereign State is entitled to make any limitation it desires, but the hope of the United States is that there may be a minimum rather than a maximum of reservations.

Bolivia, Paraguay Congratulated.

After disposing of the treaties and the protocols yesterday, the conference turned to the subject of congratulating Bolivia and Paraguay for having settled their dispute without resort to arms.

President Coolidge is much pleased with the outcome of the conference, according to information from the White House. He believes that the diplomatic problems involved were exceedingly difficult to handle and that the final result, according to his own view, gave the American republics the opportunity to demonstrate to the world in a practical way that peaceful methods of settling international disputes can effectively be relied upon on the American continent.

Pocket Veto's Validity
Questioned by Indians

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court was urged yesterday in a brief filed by counsel for the Okanagan, Colville and other Indian tribes in the State of Washington to review a case seeking to determine the validity of pocket vetoes by the President. The case, which was argued yesterday, is the first of a series of cases.

do if given the chance—another fight such as was fought over the salary legislation at the last session is bound to recur.

Tuesday Chairman Lehigh had an extended conference with Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employees. It is likely that he will confer with Senator Brookhart today or early next week.

Steward has submitted to Lehigh a list of recommendations in connection with the bill that is to remove the inequalities in the Welch act and give to the employees the raises they were supposed to get.

Objects to More Raises.

Reading this list is a recommendation that the employees who were given only half the amount that Congress intended them to get and those who did not get their raises until several weeks after the bill was passed should be provided with back pay. Lehigh said yesterday that, while he was agreeable to including a provision to take care of the back pay of those who got their raises late, he had no intention of including one to take care of the others. Such a provision, he said, would be new legislation.

Earlier in the day, Representative Celler, of New York, introduced Brookhart's bill in the House and urged his colleagues to press for action on it so that the dissatisfaction that now exists in the Government departments might be removed.

Senator Dale, of Vermont, chairman of the Senate Civil Service committee, announced yesterday that he would hold an early hearing on the Brookhart bill.

Job Seekers.

London, Jan. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Lord Julian Byng, who put over one of the most smashing blows in the great war as commander in chief of the Canadian corps at Vimy, has just demonstrated that he has not altogether lost his punch in spite of his 67 years. Within a short time after his accession to the job as chief of Scotland Yard he has driven the hilarious night element of London to cover, closed 38 questionable haunts and given warning that he proposes to do more and better.

Lord Byng is acting under direct instructions of Parliament, and of Sir William Joynton-Ricks, secretary of the interior, who has promised a complete cleanup in the London underworld, the parks and the metropolitan police force, following the celebrated arrest of Sir Leo Money and subsequent revelations of corruption among the London "bobbies."

Most of London's night club "queens," in spite of their ready wit, charm and dancing skill, are awailing the ranks of the unemployed, as the places where they formerly appeared close their doors by order of the chief commissioner. Raids are taking place each night and police stations all over the metropolitan area are crowded every evening with hosts of blonde or brunette beauties in sinuous satins and sprays of orchids, protesting in vain against being locked up indiscriminately with vagabonds and chronic alcoholics picked up under the Thames bridges and in the highways and byways of Whitechapel.

Lord Byng is acting on the presumption that most of the smooth and powdered ladies dressed in the latest Paris styles are staying but doing little or nothing for the unemployed who are abroad in all large cities of an evening. Their presence alone is sufficient to sully the streets and free ride to the police station and the result of this drive is a widespread alarm in the world of show.

Hundreds of girls who have lived extravagantly up to their luxurious incomes suddenly find themselves penniless. The police estimate that there are long thousands of gold-diggers will be idle. Offices of revue managers and burlesque houses are filled with applicants glad to accept jobs.

RUSSIA ACTS TO PUT
QUICK BAN ON WARWith Kellogg Pact Ratified,
Soviet Offers New Peace
Treaty to Neighbors.

LONG DELAY IS FEARED

The Soviet government of Russia, which was the first nation to ratify the Kellogg antiwar pact, is planning to assume leadership in being the first power to actually put the treaty into active operation.

In order to avert the delay incident to ratification by the fifteen signatory powers, Russia has formally proposed to Poland and Lithuania that these countries put the pact into operation immediately as between themselves and Russia. Poland and Lithuania, in a special statement to the effect.

Text of Russian Offer.

The text of the Soviet government's offer has been communicated to various capitals, including Washington. It is, in part, as follows:

"After receiving an invitation to adhere to the Paris agreement (Kellogg pact), the Soviet government, in a note, addressed to the French government, pointed to the absence in the pact of an obligation concerning disarmament, which is the most essential element for guaranteeing peace, to the insufficiency and indefiniteness of the very formula of the outlawry of war, and to the existence of other circumstances weakening its significance. The government of the Soviet Union continues to consider that this pact does not give those guarantees for the non-violation of peace which resulted from the pact of nonaggression and non-participation in the combinations that were proposed by it.

"In so far, however, as the Soviet Government has considered that the Paris agreement (Kellogg pact) imposes upon its participants certain obligations of a peaceful character, it has without delay adhered to it, and taking most seriously all its actions in the field of securing peace, it would like to see the agreement enter into force as soon as possible, in particular, in the relations between the Soviet Union and its nearest neighboring states.

Wait on Ratification Feared.

"Unfortunately the validity of the Paris pact is conditioned, in accordance with its article 3, upon the ratification of the pact by fourteen specified states. In the course of four months which have elapsed since the day the pact was signed, not one of those fourteen states has effected ratification, a circumstance which may cause apprehension that for a long time the pact will remain a mere document which is not formally binding for anybody. Obviously if the agreement is to be made effective earlier between separate governments, such governments must sign a separate, additional document."

Berengaria's Mail
Restriction VoidedGlover Withdraws Order,
Denying It Was Move
in Shipping War.

(Associated Press.)

Assistant Postmaster General Glover, in charge of foreign mail, yesterday rescinded the order limiting the mail to be put aboard the Cunard liner Berengaria to letters specifically addressed to go by that vessel.

The order was issued in the first place, Glover said, because the Berengaria was late in arriving at New York and it was thought that she would be late in getting away. The mail was assigned to the French liner steamer De Grasse and the steamer Baltic. The De Grasse has sailed, but the Baltic was still in New York Harbor yesterday. The mail assigned to the Baltic, however, was not transferred to the Berengaria, although the latter vessel cleared last night, while the Baltic sails at noon today.

In rescinding the order, Mr. Glover said he had been issued in an effort to speed up the mail and had not been told of the order against the Berengaria. He said he had no intention of making a move in the shipping war.

VISCOUNT BYNG.

a morning drive to the old Bailey Police Court.

All the lorels of jazz are to go and get themselves decent employment if they don't want to pass some months in the workhouse. This is the word of command that has been issued from Scotland Yard. Lord Byng, in his manifesto to his men, states that his investigation has conclusively proved that the women employed in most of the night establishments are not solely dancing partners, provided by a generous host to lonely strangers, but their main art consists in fleeing said nocturnal wanderers.

They are taught to discriminate and discern as to who is a champagne and who is a lemonade man. And they have so well drilled by the lessons and shown such a sharp judgment that Lord Byng feels they ought to be trying their talents elsewhere.

The result of this drive is a widespread alarm in the world of show. Hundreds of girls who have lived extravagantly up to their luxurious incomes suddenly find themselves penniless. The police estimate that there are long thousands of gold-diggers will be idle. Offices of revue managers and burlesque houses are filled with applicants glad to accept jobs.

Washington.

BRUSH FIRE IS BLAMED

Though he was suffering from serious burns to his face, Francis Smith, 44-year-old builder, of 121 Flower avenue, Takoma, Md., drove his car 15 miles from Marshall Hall, Md., to Washington, yesterday, collapsing at his driver's seat before he could reach a hospital.

Smith lost consciousness in front of the Coast-Inn Garage and Service Station, 1800 Nichols avenue southeast. Two employees of the garage, J. R. Walsh, of 1330 B street southeast, and W. F. Bedser, of 1106 K street southeast, found him and drove him the remainder of the distance to Casualty Hospital.

After treatment at the hospital, Dr. Peacock, Smith said that he had been burning trash near Marshall Hall and a brush fire started. He was burned in his effort to extinguish the brush fire.

Smith just recently purchased a home and farm near Marshall Hall and had visited the place yesterday to do some repair work.

Bank Robber Is Given
"15 Years" on Birthday

Green Bay, Wis., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—A reformatory sentence of from fifteen to twenty years was given to Alvin Schumacher, of De Pere, Wis., today, his twenty-fourth birthday anniversary, by Judge N. J. Monahan.

The sentence followed a confession to complicity in the recent $40,000 robbery of the Farmers Exchange Bank.

Woman and Sixth Set Of Twins "Doing Well"

Saratoga, Pa., Jan. 4 (U.P.).—Mrs. Jacob Bertinsky, 36 years old, and her sixth set of twins were "doing well," tonight, it was said at the Bertinsky home.

The twins, Bridget and Rosie, were the woman's eighteenth and nineteenth children. Thirteen of the children are alive.

Influenza Death Third
In Capital This Year

One more death, bringing the total to three since January, was reported as the toll of the influenza epidemic in the District yesterday.

There were 87 new cases reported to the health department yesterday, Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, announced. This brings the total reported in January to 374 cases.

Warns of Excessive Dancing; Maryland Cases, 15,000.

Baltimore, Jan. 4.—Kissing should be tabooed during the outbreak of influenza because such contacts provide an effective means of spreading the malady, Dr. J. Frederick Hempel, assistant commissioner of health, warned today.

He included in his admonition all forms of "petting," as well as formal osculatory greetings. Dr. Hempel pointed out that kissing is not confined to the younger generation, as is the practice of many women to greet each other with a "peck" and for adults to manifest their fondness for children by kissing them.

"Influenza is highly infectious," declared Dr. Hempel. "The germs are lodged in the respiratory passage, and the close contacts incidental to kissing and hugging provide the most favorable condition for spreading the disease. All persons, children and adults, should abstain from these Prosecutions.

CRIMES' SOLUTION NEAR

New York, Jan. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Police Commissioner Whalen and Federal Attorney Tuttle sat down at the lawyer's club today and worked out a means of dealing with the State and Federal Government's attack upon rumshouses. Once this new system begins to operate, both men are hopeful that a substantial reduction will be made in the city's 17,000 public drinking places.

"It will be a hard job," Mr. Whalen said, "and it is not one that ever can come to a stop as long as we have prohibition. Still, we've raided 567 places in the past three weeks, and arrested nearly 1,000 persons."

"If we keep this rate—and I have every intention of doing so—we'll have the really bad places, the crime-breeding dens, out of business in a few months."

Out of this two hour conference, a rare piece of cooperation between the Federal and local authorities, came several developments.

Combat Wood Alcohol Drink.

Both were to "destroy the places" where wood alcohol is employed as an ingredient of intoxicating drinks.

The police commissioner, to relieve the congestion of antiprohibition cases in the Federal courts, will submit a substantial proportion of the cases he has built up into special sessions, a State court, under the new State nuisance statute.

A new plan was worked out for padlock proceedings, and it was agreed to resort to this most effective weapon only in the case of a "hard case." The plan was a prolonged trial work while.

To curb the traffic in dope, each man recommended the use of the national police work in union; the cases will be tried in the Federal courts, where sentences are heavier, and addicts will be lodged in State institutions.

Solve Bewildering Crimes.

"I really am not at liberty to speak for Mr. Tuttle," the police commissioner said, "but he has assured me that he is in possession of certain new evidence that may go far to bringing to solution a number of the most bewildering crimes."

What crimes, or the nature of the evidence, Mr. Whalen would not discuss officially. Enough was hinted, however, to identify two cases as the mysterious murder of Edwin Jerge in Herald Square last April, and the shooting to death of Arthur Rothstein. In both cases the Federal and local police worked together.

At the same time Commissioner Whalen announced the use of the new nuisance act, which allows the police to take action against places that are common nuisances. They may, for instance, enter such places on the suspicion they are either gambling houses or disorderly houses. If liquor is found, Whalen said, the police will enter. "It just strengthens the hands of the police."

Stating that Commissioner Whalen "has summed up much of the better news aspect of much the better," he said that the police will be working to solve the "wonderful crimes" of the past.

Better Padlock Is Asked.

Particularly did he suggest that Congress and the Supreme Court furnish the district attorneys with a more powerful padlock—one that would permit the seizure of the premises, as permitted in the State, against the property even when the owners can't be found.

Such a drastic proposal did not altogether win the support of Mr. Whalen. In a later statement he declared that he would turn over all liquor cases to the municipal courts, without recommendation, "letting them decide how and where they shall be tried."

As a bonus for their "excellent work," Commissioner Whalen said the police would be given a night of tonight. They will, however, go into action again tomorrow night.

Girl Who Cost Throne
Divorced by Husband

Bombay, India, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Mumtaz Begum, dancing girl, affection for whom, cost Tukoji Rao, maharaja of Indore, his throne and who was married in 1926 to Abdul Rahman, son of a wealthy Mohammedan, has been divorced.

The divorce was agreed upon mutually at Karachi, where Abdul Rahman was quoted as saying to a newspaper man: "I have no ill will toward Mumtaz. She was obliged to agree to a divorce in response to the wishes of my father who wants me to enter business seriously."

Both Mumtaz and Rahman shed tears at Karachi for Bombay, and on arriving here said that she was tired of romances and would lead a quiet life with her mother.

Donovan Called Before
Sinclair Oil Inquirers

(Associated Press.)

William J. Donovan, the assistant to the Attorney General, has been asked by the Senate lands committee to appear before it today at a renewal of the inquiry into the Sinclair oil robbery for Salt Creek royalty oil which was declared void last fall by the Department of Justice.

There were no radical revisions proposed at the meeting, and Commissioner Dougherty said afterward, not was any special amount of time devoted to recent Bureau of Efficiency reports criticizing the conduct of various District attorneys.

The question of fiscal relations between the District and Federal Government was understood to have had a part in the discussion, although the Commissioner professed not to have received any reports from the District attorneys on the question.

While the attorneys were fighting their battle against the execution, other efforts were being made to persuade Gov. Huey P. Long to reconsider his action in refusing commutation of the death sentence. Mrs. Dreher and two of her daughters drove to Baton Rouge to seek an audience with the governor to make a personal plea, but after waiting two hours they returned.

Both Dr. Dreher and Mrs. Leboeuf were brought into the court room at Franklin, the doctor walking between the sheriff and a guard, while Mrs. Leboeuf was escorted by a guard and four men brought in Mrs. Leboeuf on a cot.

Mrs. Leboeuf appeared listless until she was asked to say a word as they came in. Mrs. Leboeuf was placed before the judge's bench. She watched Judge Simon closely and fingered her beads. Dr. Dreher plainly showed strain as he sat between his lawyers, resting on one arm. Mrs. Bonner sat in a chair beside the cot, holding her husband's left hand while Mrs. Leboeuf stroked her mother's cheek.

UNEMPLOYMENT IS CAUSE

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
(Staff Correspondent Canadian Press).

Bishop Auckland, Durham, England, Jan. 4.—Children with pinched faces and shivering in ragged clothes in the raw cold. Mothers wandering aimlessly about dirty, filthy kept streets. Rows of huddled houses, their broken windows stuffed with rags. It is such pictures of destitution as these one meets upon every hand in the mining villages of Durham.

Bishop Auckland is a shopping center for a mining neighborhood in which destitution is probably the worst of any district in England. Close by is the village of Widdowson Park with a population of 3,000, of whom 600 are former service men. Only about a dozen of these 600 are working. Like the miners of Durham, the Widdowson Park men have been caught in the economic squeeze of no markets. What with strikes and stoppages some have had scarcely any continued work since they were demobilized. There are youths of 19 who have not done a real day's work since they left school. They gradually are drifting lower and lower.

Many Depend on Parish Relief.

Hundreds of families are dependent solely on parish relief or charity, for the men have been so long without work they have run out of benefits both in Government employment insurance and military fund. Many purchases by vouchers reveal diets of bread and corn and bread and margarine. Saturday night the butcher sells his wretched scraps of meat for a penny worth of meat bones. The worst cases wait till the butcher's cart is on its return journey, hoping to get their Sunday supply still cheaper.

According to Bert, Carney, of the British Legion, who served with a Canadian ammunition column in France and now is helping with relief work in Widdowson Park, many of the men could not do any hard physical work now if they got it.

"Their stamina is so reduced," he says, "their hands have become so soft they could not tackle anything heavy. Besides they have no clothes to work in."

Notes Tell Story of Despair.

Notes which relief authorities receive, pencilled in wavering hands on scraps of paper, tell each its own story of despair and place them there.

Here is a family of ten existing on a weekly goods voucher of 25 shillings from the board of guardians, with an addition of 5 shillings in money, which works out at rather more than 60 cents a head. They have 5 shillings 6 pence rent a week to pay. They can not buy meat. Their children are going to school. The whole family sleeps on two mattresses covered by ragged clothes and old overcoats.

Here is a family of six receiving 36 shillings a week in poor relief. Three of the children are sick, chiefly, it is said, as a result of poverty. The mother pleads for a shilling to buy beef tea which the doctor has ordered. Another mother wants bedclothes. Her husband has only four days' work. They are on short rations of food, but it is clothes and bedclothes they all ask. Old coats worn by men in the street and old dresses worn by women. Often they have no underclothing at all.

ment house was rented, was set at naught by the decision of Justice Bailey agreeing with residents of the neighborhood that the House of Detention did not belong in a residential neighborhood.

Their defeat in the courts had put fear into District officials. No matter where they go, it is said, residents probably will protest and may be able to sustain their protests. The only alternative at the moment is to find a location in the commercial zone, which will be expensive and presents difficulties.

It is pointed out, demands that no great amount be expended to acquire land and build a new building because the plans for development of the municipal center of the first step in which is expected to be authorized by Congress at this session, provide for the construction of a new municipal center buildings.

But the House of Detention was not the sole subject of consideration at the night meeting of the Commissioners, which was attended by the three Commissioners and the three assistants to the Engineer Commissioner, Maj. D. A. Davidson, Maj. L. E. Atkins and Capt. H. C. Whitehouse. Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the board of Commissioners, and George S. Wilson, of the Public Welfare division, and Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor and budget officer.

Having been under the fire of examination by the House of Detention considering the annual District estimates for two days, the Commissioners sought to prepare the meeting in detail for questions they will have to answer today.

There were no radical revisions proposed at the meeting, and Commissioner Dougherty said afterward, not was any special amount of time devoted to recent Bureau of Efficiency reports criticizing the conduct of various District attorneys.

Meantime, Sheriff Charles Peot began final preparations for the double hanging. He sent here for an executioner to perform the deed, as he did not wish to officiate, since he had become so well acquainted with Dr. Dreher and Mrs. Leboeuf during their eighteen months' stay in the St. Mary Parish Jail.

MANY WOMEN WEEP AT WAR GAS PARLEY

Delegates at World Session in Tears at Talk by Prof.
Lewin, of Germany.

4 QUESTIONS ON AGENDA

Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, Jan. 4 (A.P.)—Many women attending today's opening meeting of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom were so moved by a description of the sufferings caused by poison gas as related by Prof. L. Lewin, of Germany, that they burst into tears.

Prof. Lewin, among other things, said that the gas was the most terrible weapon of dastardly murderers, and that the possibilities were that clouds of poison gas would be launched on defenseless people. There was no reliable antidote, he said, that could be used under ordinary circumstances against poison gas, 25 kinds of which are already known, with the likelihood of their reaching 100.

Chemical Control Asked.

William MacCortney, of England, demanded international control of chemical industries manufacturing poison gases in his speech this evening. He said that in contradiction to armament plants, chemical industries are able to prepare poisonous war gases secretly.

Dr. Gertrude Woker, a Swiss delegate, made a bitter attack on unnamed American "experts" who have described gas as a humane war weapon and as a great asset for the security of America. She quoted Marshal Poch as writing "the optimistic and colored statements of these knights of war gas have turned into absurd subterfuges."

The interests of powerful groups of capitalists in their profits were blamed by Capt. C. J. Brunskog, of Sweden, for war gas armaments. "Unless war is abolished in the next few years, Europe is doomed," he declared.

Prof. Carl Grossmann, of Berlin, warned the conference against exaggerations and against conducting its antiwar gas campaign in a sentimental manner.

Four Topics to Be Discussed.

The four main questions which will be discussed are:

- 1—The character of modern warfare.
- 2—How to protect civilian populations.
- 3—Science and technical equipment and disarmament.
- 4—Conclusions and how they may be turned into practice.

Coast Guard Rescues Crew of Sunken Vessel

Miami, Fla., Jan. 4 (A.P.)—Stranded for 27 hours in Fowey Hook Lighthouse, 14 miles southeast of here, four men and two boys, survivors of a sunken fishing boat, were safe today, having been taken aboard Coast Guard patrol boat 248 and landed after battling high seas. The boat had rammed a submerged wreck.

Everett Noble, of Lawrenceville, N. J., and five Floridians composed the crew.

FUELED PLANE 84 HOURS ALOFT ESTABLISHES TWO WORLD MARKS

taking aboard fuel, food and supplies at intervals, but if it had started in a straight line eastward, Army men estimated, the plane would have been passing over Europe today.

The plane returned to Los Angeles this afternoon after having flown since yesterday over the Imperial Valley, close to the Mexican border, where it was driven by fog along the coast.

En route from the Imperial Valley Airport, the refueling plane No. 1 poured 100 gallons of gasoline into the endurance ship's tanks.

A note was dropped by Maj. Spatz here ordering the delivery of food and more fuel at 4:30 p. m. He also asked for a refueling at midnight.

Improved weather conditions were proving an aid to the flight, Army men said.

Capt. R. G. Hoyt, pilot of refueling plane No. 1, made three contacts with the Question Mark before his return here. At 6:30 a. m. he delivered 150 gallons of gasoline and again shortly before 10 a. m. he took off from the Imperial Airport and transferred another 150 gallons.

"They're all happy up there," Capt. Hoyt said, "seem to be feeling good and everything running fine."

A pursuit plane dropped breakfast to the fliers, consisting of oranges, oatmeal and coffee, and supplied 25 gallons of oil through a contact hose.

Flight Pops and Clouds

A heroic and at times desperate battle by the crew of the Question Mark to keep their plane in the air during yesterday and last night was revealed today in a log dropped from the trimotor biplane. This log disclosed that the crew had to fight fog, clouds, nearly exhausted fuel supplies, down drafts in Imperial Valley and a motor going bad and throwing oil.

The decision to return to the Metropolitan airport followed the delivery of weather reports to Maj. Spatz. The fog, which settled over Los Angeles yesterday, had disappeared today and a bright sun shone over San Fernando Valley. The air was a bit chilly with only a slight breeze, making ideal flying weather.

Army officers also pointed out that Maj. Spatz was anxious to keep the Question Mark in the vicinity of Los Angeles because of the necessity of landing at the Metropolitan airport if the plane's landing gear should be damaged. Landing at any other point would automatically disqualify the ship's feats under flying regulations.

Felicitated by Department

The achievement of the Army Air Corps pilots in California in setting a new record for sustained flight was acclaimed yesterday by officials of the War Department. Secretary Davis and Maj. Gen. Peche, chief of the Air Corps, down through the ranks.

The performance of the plane Question Mark and its pilots has fully met the expectations of the officials directly interested in the flight and they feel that before the machine lands it will have established a record which will stand for some time.

Secretary Davis and other officials of the department are sending telegrams of congratulations to the commander and crew. These will be passed down to them from one of the refueling planes, and it is expected acknowledgments will be written about the Question Mark and forwarded to Washington.

Secretary Davis in his message to Maj. Carl Spatz, commanding the Question Mark, said:

"The smoothness of accomplishment of every phase of your remarkable and record flight has been a source of pride and inspiration to me and to the entire Air Corps."

Assistant Secretary Davidson, who supervises Army air activities, said: "The flight of the Question Mark is a record of the highest order and your crew on breaking world's endurance records. You are doing a magnificent piece of work of real value to military and naval aviation and to the nation. Your record will stand as a monument to the skill and courage of the men of the Air Corps."

The chief of staff of the Army, Maj. Gen. Charles F. Summerall, sent this message:

"To you and the crew of the record-breaking, record-making Question Mark I extend hearty congratulations and best wishes. The skill demonstrated in the frequent refueling of your ship brings great credit to the participants and is a source of pride to the entire Air Corps."

Tiny Girls' Stories Divide Mixed Jury

Women, as Well as Men, Are Split on Charges Made by Small Witnesses

Morrisstown, N. J., Jan. 4.—After six hours and twenty-five minutes of frank discussion—during which they heeded the court's order to forget modesty in a search for justice, ten men and two women jurors failed to reach a verdict tonight in the case of George A. Balducci, secretary of the Moose Lodge of Dover, N. J., accused of abusing tiny girls.

The jurors were discharged at 11:25 p. m. after debating from 8 p. m. upon the revolting stories the girls, frequently contradicting themselves, told on the witness stand. For hours the jury was deadlocked at 8 to 4 for acquittal, with one woman believing Balducci guilty and the other thinking him innocent.

While deadlocked the jurors were forced to buy their own meals, because no provision had been made for them. The disagreement further clouds the fate of Charles A. Nipe, already convicted on the strength of the little girls' stories and now awaiting prison sentence, as well as six other men under indictment for alleged attacks upon the school children.

Father Hunting Boy Stolen by Apaches

Douglas, Ariz., Jan. 4 (A.P.)—Francisco Jimenez, Sonora, Mexico, cattleman, today was leading a searching party into the rugged mountains south of here, the lair of a wild band of Apaches, Indians, which more than two years ago kidnaped his young son. The Jimenez family was set upon by Apaches in October, 1926, while riding from Mexico to its home on the Rio Grande. The son, who was named Juan, was killed. The Jimenez family was also captured. The elder Jimenez today received directions from Gov. Paustio Topete, of Sonora, to organize a search party as Agave Prieta, Mexico, across the border from here, to hunt down and wipe out the Apache band. The Apaches in the mountains of Mexico, whence they make raids at intervals, are descendants of the Geronimo band which 40 years ago terrorized southern Arizona. This group was dispersed after many had been captured by United States soldiers, following one of the most famous of Indian expeditions. Jimenez believes his boy still is alive.

Newlywed Mail Pilot Forced to Quit Bride

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 4 (A.P.)—Honey-moon or not, mail pilot of the night air mail out of Atlanta for the Pitcairn Aviation Corporation, who became a bridegroom yesterday, made his regular eastward flight tonight.

Since the line does not yet carry passengers, the bride must remain behind. Kyle married Miss Jane Louise Paulk, formerly of Fitzgerald, Ga., at the home of the Rev. C. K. Rutten in East Point. They intend to make their home at Hapeville, near Candler Field.

At Smith to Visit Palm Beach.

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 4 (A.P.)—Alfred R. Smith, who has been re-elected as governor of New York State, and a party of six will arrive in Palm Beach on January 16 for a three-week vacation at the Palm Beach Hotel. It was announced here today. While it was said that Mrs. Smith will accompany her husband to Palm Beach, names of the other members of the party were not listed when reservations were made at the Breakers.

Woman Shot Dead In Play Over Pistol

Weapon, Produced by Her Brother, Explodes When Two Begin to Wrestle

Chester, Md., Jan. 4.—Mrs. Harry Goheen, 26, was killed early tonight at the home here of her parents, when a revolver, owned by her brother, Charles Porter, accidentally exploded and the charge penetrated her side. The tragedy occurred in the presence of the young woman's parents and several other members of her family.

Porter had taken the pistol from his pocket and shown it to his sister. They began to wrestle playfully for the weapon when, a few moments later, a shot was heard and Mrs. Goheen fell to the floor. Dr. Charles Whelan and Dr. Harry L. Dodd were called and pronounced the woman dead.

Before marriage Mrs. Goheen was Miss Elsie Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Porter, of this town. Her husband a few weeks ago was sentenced by Talbot County Circuit Court to a year in the Maryland House of Correction for bootlegging. A year ago he was tried on a similar charge in Kent County Circuit Court here and ordered to leave the county on pain of a similar sentence.

Flu Causes Schools' Opening to Be Delayed

Orange, Va., Jan. 4.—Following a meeting of the Orange County Board of Health, the County School Board has been instructed to delay opening of all county public schools until the week of January 14, owing to the epidemic of influenza.

The disease, while apparently not of the virulent type of 1918, is sufficiently severe to cause grave concern. One death has occurred in the county yesterday. Several other cases of pneumonia are reported.

Quantic Pilots Leave To Attend Miami Fete

Berryville, Va., Jan. 4.—Capt. J. B. Neill, Jr., and Capt. James Frealey, U. S. M. C., members of the Air Corps at Quantico, each piloting a plane left Quantico this morning with four other planes for Jacksonville, Fla., to join the planes from the Army and Navy which are being sent to Miami to take part in the opening of the large municipal airport next week.

ARGUMENTS CLOSED IN RAIL VALUE CASE

O'Fallen Appeal Taken Under Advisement by Supreme Court Justices.

RULING MAY HIT RATES

(United Press.)

The O'Fallen railroad valuation case, which may have a vital bearing on the prices of railroad stocks, clothes and most of the other assets of the nation's economic conditions, was taken under advisement by the Supreme Court yesterday at the end of two days of argument.

Two members of the cabinet which Chief Justice Taft formed while President appeared before him and put up strenuous resistance to the railroad's third attempt to overturn the Interstate Commerce Commission's system of valuation—the system upon which rates are based, determining many price factors in every commodity sale in the country.

Former Attorney General George W. Wickersham and former Interior Secretary Walter L. Fisher defended the valuation system of the commission, and asserted that it was physically impossible to determine "current reproduction costs" at fluctuating prices from year to year, as proposed by the railroads.

Says Rates Depend on Valuation.

Frederick H. Wood, New York lawyer for the two St. Louis short lines which brought the appeal, had the last word in denial of this proposition, and a charge that the commission was fixing valuations to conform to its own idea of proper rates. He contended the rates must be based on the valuations, not vice versa.

Replying to the suggestions of Wickersham and Fisher that acceptance of "current reproduction cost" as a basis of valuation would destroy rate-regulation and make all railroad securities highly speculative, Wood said the railroads were not suggesting that such a basis ought to be applied to all the railroads of the country. His suggestion was that it ought to apply to profitable roads such as the St. Louis and O'Fallen, which actually could be sold at a high price because of its high earnings.

The day was marked by the sudden illness of Justice Sutherland, who nevertheless will continue in the case. Chief Justice Taft announced after the lunch recess that Sutherland was ill "not seriously" but enough to require him to return home. Lawyers consented to his continuing in this case.

Urges Protection for Investors.

Donald R. Richberg, representing the National Valuation Conference, concluded his argument yesterday, asserting use of fluctuating prices would prevent the commission from protecting railroad security-holders in times of depression.

Wickersham went into the other aspects of the case, which arises from application of the commission's $680,000 valuation against the St. Louis O'Fallen, in a test case under the excess profits recapture clause of the 1920 transportation act. The road was asked for $22,000. It took the order to the Federal courts, and a three-judge court in St. Louis refused to rule on the valuation question. It rejected the road's assertion that even at the road's own valuation of $1,350,000 a return of nearly 8 per cent was received by the road, hence that it could not claim a deduction. The lower court also dealt with the contention that the O'Fallen should be judged as a part of the same system as the manufacturers' railway, both roads being owned by the Adolphus Busch estate, upholding the commission in its rejection of this plan.

The Supreme Court may decide the case on either of these minor points, if it desires, without a ruling on valuation, but all attorneys concentrated their attention to the commission's system of valuation.

5 Ready for Dinner Are Killed by Gas

Neighbor Complaints Cause
Police to Discover New York Tragedy.

New York, Jan. 4 (N.Y.W.H.S.)—Five persons were killed by gas as they prepared to partake of dinner New Year's day in a top-floor apartment at 37 Poplar street, Brooklyn, it was disclosed tonight when police broke in.

The victims of the tragedy were George Wood, 50, a printer; his wife, Mary, 45; her brother-in-law, first name and age unknown, and two unidentified men, each about 35 years old.

Ralph Garcia, tenant of the apartment below that of the Wood family, had smelled gas in the hallway since New Year's day, but the odor did not become strong enough to worry about until about 7 o'clock tonight. Then he asked police to investigate.

Detectives Keana and Kelly arrived and broke in the door and were nearly killed by the rush of gas. They switched on the lights and saw the bodies of the five who had died.

Stringent Dry Penalties
Proposed in Swank Bill

(Associated Press.)

Repeated violations of the prohibition act would draw increased penalties under a proposed amendment to the act introduced yesterday by Representative Swank (Democrat), Oklahoma.

First convictions would bring a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100, with a sentence of not less than one month nor more than five years. A second conviction, while not changing the amount of fine to be imposed, would fix the minimum sentence at six months and the maximum at ten years. Upon a third conviction a sentence of not less than five years would be imposed, the fine limitations remaining as fixed for first convictions.

330 Reservists to Get
Year of Active Flying

(Associated Press.)

The placing of approximately 330 Air Corps reserve officers on a year's active duty, beginning July 1, was announced yesterday by the War Department as a part of the five-year Air Corps program.

Selections will be made from graduates of the advanced flying school, members of the Air Corps reserve who can fulfill the required flying qualifications and qualified civilian transport pilots who are not at present members of the Air Corps reserve. Commanders of the corps areas throughout the country have been instructed to make a survey of persons in the above classes.

Deaths From Liquor Bring Indictments

Kansas City Man, Alleged
Proprietor of Place,
Gives Self Up.

Kansas City, Jan. 4.—Oscar Roe, alleged proprietor of an establishment here where a drinking orgy November 5, the night before the general election, is alleged to have resulted in the death of five persons, was in the county jail here today.

Roe and Jess Blanchard were named jointly in two indictments returned by the grand jury. They are accused in one indictment of having feloniously given intoxicating liquor to Leo Krueger and in the second of having given liquor feloniously to Michael Carney.

Blanchard has not been arrested. Roe entered a plea of not guilty before Judge Brown Harris in criminal court and his bond was set at $3,000 on each count. Trial was set for January 14.

Several men were taken from Roe's place early election day in various states of intoxication by police. Five men are alleged to have died from the effects of the liquor.

Ban on Pushcarts Favored By Grand Jury in New York

Presentment Filed After Four City Departments Complain of Curb Merchants' Activities, but Trade From Baby Carriages and Other Vehicles Is Undisturbed.

New York, Jan. 4 (U.P.)—The New York pushcart situation reached a crisis today. After wrestling with it for 30 days and 30 nights, the county grand jury reported that it was bad—might be—and something ought to be done about it.

There are 6,500 pushcarts in the situation, selling everything from vegetables and second-hand face cream to doleful and extremely dead fish. They do a $50,000,000 business every year to 1,500,000 customers.

The grand jury didn't want the pushcart crisis. It was shoved into its lap after four city departments had tackled it and retired in bad order.

Unknown to the world at large, the offended city departments of health, police, street cleaning and market conspired for weeks to clean up the pushcart situation, or at least get it under control. They failed. The pushcart merchants, deceptively mild appearing, would not listen to reason. They made renewed complaints that inspectors were grating, peddling with or without licenses, with equal cheerfulness, made faces at the police, dumped additional old vegetables in the streets, and their noses and stoma, instead of diminishing, increased to a new magnitude.

Feeling that they were losing ground, the city departments turned over the battle of the sidewalks of New York to the grand jury.

The grand jury today filed a presentment containing twelve numbered suggestions for controlling the pushcart crisis, one of which was that war veterans should have a preference in allocating pushcart space and another that plates bearing the name, number and control. They failed. The pushcart merchants, deceptively mild appearing, would not listen to reason. Berlioz and Wagner on Air Tonight

Damrosch Also to Offer Selections From Other Composers—Night Program by Washington Artists on WMAL, 7:30.

An hour with a symphony orchestra and two hours of dance music are featured from Station WRC during the evening.

Berlioz's overture, "A Roman Carnival," which was written to be played before the second act of his opera, "Benvenuto Cellini," opens the weekly Nation-wide concert by the National Orchestra under the direction of Walter Damrosch at 8 o'clock. The "Dances" from Gluck's old opera "Iphigenia in Aulis" are taken from the ballet of this pioneer of the modern opera school, and an Indian theme, "Call of the Plains," by Rubin Goldmark, a New York composer of Viennese parentage, will also be played by the orchestra.

The "Scherzo" from Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 3 in A Minor, evidently inspired by a visit to Scotland in 1829, is purely a caprice. This "Scherzo" and the "Prelude" and "Finale" from "Tristan and Isolde," the beautiful music by Richard Wagner from the opera of that name, are other high lights in the concert.

The full program for the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra at 10 o'clock follows:

"Hello, Sweetie," "Me and the Man in the Moon," "Birth of the Blues," "Black Bottom," "Carolina Moon," "Waltz from the 'Red Mill,'" "Don't Be Like That," "Moonlight and Stars," "Doin' the Raccoon," "Somebody Loves My Gal," "Variety Rag" from "Good News," "Ready for the River," "Trot Moutard," "Lila," "Beautiful Ohio," "Was It a Dream?" and "International Rag."

The Wardman Park Dance Orchestra will be heard from 11 o'clock until midnight.

During the period between the National Symphony Orchestra and the Lucky Strike Hour a program of musical comedy hits of yesterday and today will be broadcast by Lew White, including selections from "On, Boy," "Bally," "Very Good Eddie," "Lady Be Good," "Sunny," "Green Girl," "No, No, Nanette," "Mary, Rose Marie," "Hit the Deck," "Desert Song," "Here's How," "Punchy Face," "Show Boat" and "The Three Musketeers."

Among the afternoon features from WRC will be a two-hour program, National Republican Club Saturday, 12:30 o'clock, and the RCA Demonstration Hour.

WMAL will feature another Washington Night program, made up of local talent. Two dance periods are included, the first at 7:30 o'clock, when Dot Myers, Willard and her "Metro-Melody" Orchestra are heard, and the Brunswick Saturday Nighters at 10:45 o'clock.

Among the short features scheduled are Phil Hayden and Helen Kenny, entertainers; "The Honoluluans," Sophocles T. Pappas and P. Mason Willis, barytone.

Station WOL, in addition to the morning program between 7:30 and noon, will broadcast dinner music and a request program between 6 and 7 o'clock, singing old songs at 10 o'clock, while time two hours of dance music will be offered.

From 9:15 o'clock until 1 a. m. Station WJW will offer another Saturday night barn dance and radio revue program, introducing Plantation Echoes, Fran Trappe, Woodville Brown, Catala Trio, Hilo Boys, Pa Brown and his Lulu Browns, and the Blue Ridge Harmony Boys.

The station will be on the air from 7 until 9:15 o'clock with several short features.

Stations WHAS, Louisville, Ky., and WVA, Wheeling, W. Va., will be among those broadcasting hilarious Saturday evening programs at 11 o'clock, with the Great Louisville Entertainers from the corner of the Mountaineer Club from the latter. The Chicago stations will offer after midnight entertainment, with the Insomniac Club from KTW, at 12 o'clock, the Knickerbocker Club from WGN at 1 a. m., and three hours of dance music from WMAQ at 12:30 o'clock.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES McDONALD

ARE men incapable of appreciating sacrifices? Does a woman's willingness to sacrifice for love belie her in the eyes of the man for whom such sacrifice is made? The women today have voiced that sentiment. Is their belief well-founded, or merely the result of an unhappy circumstance? Let us consider the matter. If you have made some great sacrifice to give to the benefit of your experience. Write your opinion. Tell why or why not sacrifice is well.

Dear Miss McDonald: I hasten to warn any girl who is considering marriage that the first thing to consider is herself and her own comfort. The woman who sacrifices luxury or comfort for love is a moron. I did it, so I know.

MARTY TO LOVE.

Dear Miss McDonald: Your column is interesting, especially on the subject under discussion now.

Sixteen years ago I was young and happy, but I married a man who had nothing but his love to offer. Like other young people we thought we could manage to live on his wages. Since then we have eaten, but that is about all. Of course, he has his car and little luxuries, but the pure selfishness of the family has been drawn so tightly that I never have money. I am not allowed a dollar. With a big house and family of eight, and capable of housekeeping and doing all the housework, I have made our house much better if I could have had a little money, but he thinks differently. I have advised him in business, and when he went against my advice, he failed and the family had to suffer.

We have a lovely family, but for my dreams of love I have paid. I look like a woman of 45 instead of one of 35. I have no clothes. I have no time for myself. I must be the slave and the mother, too. Do you wonder I realize the little lady who is pondering the question to keep her good position, go about among other young folks but keep her lower waiting until they are agreed to marry in the way she desires. Men do not appreciate sacrifices. They take it as their due and demand more. A home takes money. Any girl who is wise to marry money first when she considers marriage. I only wish now that I had done so. My husband would have placed a little higher value on me if I had.

Taylor to Hear Radio Engineers

Naval Research Chief at Anacostia Is Well-Known as Authority on Short Wave Developments—Here Since 1919.

Following the decision of the Institute of Radio Engineers to hold its annual meeting in Washington next May, for the first time, an additional honor came to the Capital this week, when the institute chose Commander A. Hoyt Taylor, superintendent of the radio division of the Naval Research Laboratory in Anacostia, as its next president.

Commander Taylor, who is one of the best known authorities on short wave developments in the world, was awarded the Liebmman Memorial prize by the institute for his short wave and application of the piezo crystal in transmitting circuits year before last.

Explosive in speech and aggressive in manner, Dr. Taylor—better known by that designation than his naval title—is a forceful and interesting figure in the radio world and there is always something doing when he is around.

"I might be classified as 25 per cent physicist, 25 per cent inventor, 25 per cent naval officer, and 25 per cent radio engineer," Dr. Taylor once remarked. Which is a fact, for now a man 50 years old, he is a radio pioneer and a varied and domestic commander.

Born in Chicago, he graduated from Northwestern University and later served on the faculties of Michigan State College and the University of Wisconsin.

Early in 1911 Dr. Taylor started his radio work at the University of North Dakota. From the beginning of this work particular attention was given to the study of wave propagation phenomena, fading, influence of weather conditions and studies of directional systems.

Dr. Taylor entered the naval reserve as lieutenant in March of 1917 and was assigned to the Naval Research Laboratory at Anacostia. While there he acted as head of the experimental division of the naval air station, studying, particularly, aircraft radio development work.

Early in 1919 he was ordered to Washington and was placed in charge of an atomic radio laboratory with additional duties in a consulting capacity for other radio activities of the naval service. During this period he was in the reserve force, remaining in active duty in this rank until July of 1922. Since then he has remained a reserve officer.

Dr. Taylor was later made superintendent of the radio division at the Naval Research Laboratory.

INTERPRETS the MODE

A Lovely Lady must have a costume slip for each outfit! Here are six for your selection.. (Dah-ray designs.)

New York, Jan. 4, 1929.

HAVE you ever asked yourself in an exasperated moment why it is that the lovely ladies of the stage and screen, of the fashion photos and of all the other places and things where elegance is required—why it is that they have never a peeping lingerie strap, or even the faintest intimation of daintily underdressed hem—over in fact any indication whatsoever that their faultless gowns are hung on anything but faultless flesh and bones?

WEE MANZELLE.

The answer is—perfect lingerie. Perfect lingerie of the fashion world, it is the—proper type of lingerie for each type of gown, lingerie cut to its exact dimensions, even if you don't want to consider their value in terms of your peace of mind.

AND because we value your peace of mind, oh, ever so much, what do we do?

WE do what we can. We make for you a costume slip, the most important piece of lingerie in the wardrobe. We make for you a costume slip, the most important piece of lingerie in the wardrobe. We make for you a costume slip, the most important piece of lingerie in the wardrobe.

A Little Saturday Talk.

IT is too bad that there have been so many cases of the "flu" this winter in different parts of the country. It is a disease which is no run to get—I had a touch of it ten years ago.

Thousands of persons died in the flu epidemic of 1918 and 1919. It has not been so bad this time, but it has been bad enough. Hundreds of schools were closed the week before Christmas in different cities.

Doctors say that the sickness this time has not been so much influenza as "grippe." La grippe is a good deal more than a heavy cold; yet those who become ill with it do not enjoy the same kind of recovery as those who have the flu.

The flu and the grippe are spread by means of germs. One way for the germs to travel is through the air after a person sneezes. It is a good idea to keep your distance from persons who sneeze, so that the germs will not reach you. If you have to sneeze, use a handkerchief to catch the germs. Keep them from hurting any one else. If we go into crowded stores or theaters during the time of an "epidemic," it is hard to avoid breathing in some of the germs.

The best way to protect ourselves from sickness is to keep our digestion in good order. You will help yourself by eating fruits and vegetables. Do not eat very much meat. Drink at least a few glasses of water each day. Rain and snow are great help in keeping down the germs. They clean the air, taking away the germs and dust. It would be fine if we could order a rain or a snowfall when we needed it. We can't do that now (at least our order will not always be filled), but scientists will probably find a way, within a few hundred years, to bring rain or snow at any time. Maybe cities will vote on whether to have rain on Saturday or Sunday!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

8 MONTHS AND NO TREAT.

Mrs. R. W. Evans writes: My baby is eight months old and hasn't any of his teeth yet. He crawls on everything he gets his hold of and acts as though his gums hurt.

Should he have had teeth by this time and how many?

2. As I am working, he is on the bottle now and, outside of a little orange juice, eats nothing but the milk given him in the bottle. I have noticed that you recommend that cereals be fed babies. Is he old enough to be fed cereals and, if not, there some danger of overfeeding him if I give him cereal and his bottle also?

3. When should my baby walk? He crawls now and wants to be on his feet all the time. If I encourage him to walk now, is there danger of his becoming bowlegged on account of his age?

1. Yes. Two to four.

2. He is old enough for cereal and should have it. If there is danger of overfeeding cut down the milk. Do not encourage him to walk. Let nature take its course.

If he does not start cutting teeth in another month consult your physician as to the possibility of giving him a very small daily dose of thyroid.

TEMPER IN CHILDREN.

This is a manifestation of anger. It is the result of bad training. The remedy is training.

The Ghandi treatment is best. This treatment is one of passive resistance. Play no attention to the tantrum. Ignore the temper tantrum. However, never allow the child to gain his point by this procedure.

PALPITATING HEART.

V. F. M. writes: I am over 17 years of age and for the last six months I have been troubled with my heart. It has a frequent skipping of the beats, also it is palpitating, mostly after I play. Is there any sign of heart disease?

Palpitation of the heart may mean heart disease. It may be the result of nervousness, or of intoxication, or of too much smoking, or something of that sort. It may mean nothing. Let your physician decide what it means in your case.

Debut of G. W. Quintet Is Delayed

3 Players Ill, Coach Crum Postpones High Point Game.

Gallaudet - Baltimore Play Here Tonight; G. U. in Gotham.

WITH three of its players suffering attacks of the "flu" and the gymnasium in an incomplete state of repair, George Washington University has been forced to postpone the opening of its basketball schedule from tonight, when High Point (N. C.) College was to have been met, until sometime next week. In the only local game on tonight's card, Gallaudet will entertain Baltimore University on the Kendall Green floor, starting at 8 o'clock.

Coach Maud Crum returned to the city Thursday to find that two of his regular players, Paul Bowen, forward, and Bill Snow, center, and one of the reserves, Fendall Alexander, a center, were confined to their beds. With his team thus "short" and the playing space not quite ready for use, Crum deemed it wise to delay the Gallaudet debut until a time when they would have a fair chance of putting up a creditable performance.

The Gallaudet first opponent may be the Elizabethtown, Pa., quintet, although so far arrangements for this game are only tentative. The date is considered as next Saturday. The postponement of the George Washington debut leaves the local field entirely to Gallaudet tonight.

Georgetown, which is on a northern tour, will be playing in New York City, meeting the New York A. C. on the program of ceremonies dedicating the opening of the Gotham Club's new $3,000,000 clubhouse. The Hilltop quintet will seek to return to the win column after having lost to New York University Thursday night in the finals of the Yale tournament.

Gallaudet seems to stand a fine chance of prolonging its early season winning streak, which now rests at three games. Capt. Louis Dyer, the Silents' sharpshooting forward, will take the floor for the first time this season, and his scoring ability doubtless will add materially to the Big Blue's offensive power. He has been on the ailing list with an injured knee since November.

While Baltimore showed impressively here against Georgetown and Catholic U. several weeks ago, Gallaudet feels confident it can take the decision. The Silents are hurt not only by the return of Capt. Dyer, but by the fact that they have improved rapidly of late in their passing game.

Inaccuracy in pegging the ladder around the court hampered the Kendall Green Five earlier in the campaign, but this fault appeared to have been eradicated, last Monday night, when they wallowed the Pitt Silents for their third straight victory.

Arrangements for the Elizabethtown game are not closed. George Washington will get started on January 10th against American University. The George Washington schedule as it stands now follows:

January 18—American U., at home; 19—Baltimore U., at home; 20—Navy, at Annapolis; February 2—Columbia, at home; 3—Boston A. American U., at American U.; 4—Elizabethtown, at home; 5—Brooklyn, at home; 6—Virginia Military, at home; 7—Lynchburg College, at home; 8—Maryland, at home; 9—Lynchburg College, at home; 10—March 2—Catholic U., at home.

PALACE PREP MEET.
The Palace Prep Eleven, recent winners of the 135-pound grid championship of the Capital City League, will hold a special meeting tonight at 8:30 at the street southwest at 7 o'clock. Plans for a football banquet will be discussed.

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Four major league baseball clubs—the Athletics, the Indians, the Tigers and the Pirates—are said to desire to have Dutch Ruether tuck his long gray beard under his belt and come back from San Francisco to show some of the current crop of stars what big league pitching is like. The ancient southpaw, out of drift by the Yanks at the end of the 1927 season, went through the Pacific Coast League last season like a bubonic plague epidemic.

The fact that Ruether can pitch is not news, however. He helped pitch the Reds to a pennant in 1919 and subsequently starred for Brooklyn. When he was shunted into the American League he helped Washington win a pennant. When a severe operation made his future dubious, the canny Clark Griffith unloaded him or the Yanks. He recovered in time to help the Yanks win another flag.

In his last season here he was effective, despite the fact that he was in poor condition. Every afternoon he pitched, one of Barry Stevens' diary experts tried to connect a special broom to carry him through the strain of a nine-inning game. Often he suffered great pain, especially when he saw Babe Ruth gulp down four hot dogs in succession, without recourse to digestive aids other than four bottles of pop.

It is doubtful if Ruether heeds the call to the big time, however. He has found that the California climate agrees with him, is earning a satisfactory wage, and is not only willing but eager to spend the rest of his baseball days on the West Coast. Like Al Mamula, of the Newark Bears, whose greatest feat is that some club in the majors may lift him from satisfactory surroundings.

Lewis Quits; German Beats Sonnenberg Wins Title

Wrestling Champion, Butted From Ring, Is Disqualified.

Ex - Dartmouth Football Star Wins First Fall by "Tackle."

By WILLIAM R. KING (Associated Press Sports Writer).

BOSTON, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—"Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg, a former Dartmouth football player, who took up professional wrestling less than a year ago, became the champion of the world here tonight when he defeated Lewis by a "tackle" in the first round.

Lewis had been butted seven times in rapid succession by Sonnenberg and was unable to get up. He fell outside of the ropes to escape from the challenger's "flying tackle."

Referee Leon Burbank warned Lewis each time he went outside and finally started to count on him. After the seventh but, Lewis failed to step back before the count of ten and Burbank awarded the decision to Sonnenberg.

A crowd of 20,000, which taxed the Boston Garden to its capacity, received the decision enthusiastically and tendered Sonnenberg a wild ovation when he left the ring.

Sonnenberg gained the first fall with his "flying tackle" after working on Lewis for 25 minutes and 46 seconds. He planned the championship showdown to the last after breaking four vicious headlocks, which the latter applied in rapid succession.

Up to that point Lewis had carefully avoided offering his abdomen as a target for Sonnenberg's butting. When the latter broke the fourth headlock, Lewis stood upright, regained his breath, and behaved as if he had a chance to step back or slide, Sonnenberg sprang.

Sonnenberg butted his stomach viciously into Lewis' midsection. In agony, grabbed him by both legs and spilled him to the mat. He had Lewis' shoulders touching before the champion could get up. Sonnenberg intended to try to retain his title by downing the challenger with his famous headlock. He climbed, about to step back, and stepped sideways with an arm guarding his middle, and tried to work this hold at every opportunity.

Sonnenberg tried all his other holds during the early stages of the match and set himself to launch his "flying tackle" when the champion broke the others. When his chance came he appeared in distress from the frightful pressure which Lewis had applied to his head.

His actions evidently deceived Lewis, who then gave him his first opportunity to use his butting and tripping tactics.

When the wrestlers returned to the ring after their rest period, Lewis was again on his feet before Sonnenberg for fully five minutes and then tripped the challenger to the mat, where he applied a headlock. Sonnenberg freed himself with a desperate squirm and got an armlock on the champion.

Sonnenberg tried a headlock and then another before he was able to get his "flying tackle" in. The first but, which struck Lewis in the pit of the stomach, knocked him out of the ring. He dropped back, Sonnenberg met him with another but, and Sonnenberg crawled out of the ropes.

This action was repeated five times before the referee counted the champion out. After the referee ruled Sonnenberg's arm as a gesture of victory, Paul Bowser, promoter of the title bout, came into the ring to present him with the coveted championship belt which was awarded to Lewis when he defeated Joe Stecher for the title two years ago.

WINS DECISION

Title Reverts To Jack, Says Muldoon

Dempsey, at 34, Still Great Fighter; Was Poorly Handled.

Bouts With Tunney, Defeat of Sharkey Earn Him Title.

By EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Whether or not Jack Dempsey fights again, he is the heavyweight champion of the world now, so far as William Muldoon, veteran New York boxing commissioner, is concerned.

The once-famous "old man" now is a more and more a minor figure in the world of boxing. Muldoon, in one of the most important decisions of the world now, so far as William Muldoon, veteran New York boxing commissioner, is concerned.

Today he named Jack one of the greatest athletes in the history of boxing, and declared that Dempsey's victory over Tunney was a masterpiece of boxing. He said that Dempsey's victory over Tunney was a masterpiece of boxing.

For the reason that he showed above all the rest of the field, Dempsey is the greatest fighter of the world now, so far as William Muldoon, veteran New York boxing commissioner, is concerned.

"Dempsey," he said, "needs no long, vigorous training camp to prepare him for the ring again. He needs only to build up a great reserve of nervous energy by his victory over Tunney."

Tunney at Chicago because he had trained too long and too hard. He was prepared to fight Dempsey for a long match of the old days, rather than a ten-round bout.

The former champion, at 34, is too old, he said, to have been so long in the ring. He needs only to build up a great reserve of nervous energy by his victory over Tunney."

"Never has Dempsey been properly handled," he said. "The day he won the championship from Tunney in 1919 at Toledo, Jack was wretchedly handled and ever since then has shown signs of being a victim of his corner, naturally he has been unable to do his best under those conditions. Still he knocked out Jack Sharkey by a knockout for a reason which was a truly great fighter, and twice he stayed ten rounds with Tunney."

"Somehow, with foresight, in Dempsey's corner, they have been making the title back for him when Tunney went down in the seventh round. Before the bout ever started, one man was a victim of the other."

"When Tunney goes down, listen for my voice, look at me, and do only as I say."

That had happened. Dempsey would have been sent to a neutral corner as Tunney was floored. He could not resist the temptation of seeing the center of one of the most exciting moments in ring history. When the referee's count reached eight or nine Jack would have been fresh and ready to finish the fight.

Dempsey never has had the benefit of such coaching. His second knock-out of Tunney was a masterpiece of the fight. He stepped over Tunney once to get to a corner after knocking him down. There always has been an uproar behind him.

"No one can tell, of course, what Tunney would have done if he had been the count over him in the seventh round had been only nine. He might have gotten up all right and he might not. There again Dempsey was the victim."

"I was the originator of the rule that said a boxer, upon scoring a knock-out, must retire to a neutral corner. The rule was picked up by the Illinois State Athletic Commission and incorporated in its code. Provision for the count was clear, however, and the referee's duty, after seeing that the boxer on his feet had retired properly, was to pick up the timekeeper's count, not start all over again."

Rome, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Gus Tunney has "definitely and decidedly" retired, he said today, and any stories circulated to create a contrary idea are entirely without foundation.

The former heavyweight champion, in response to an inquiry from the Associated Press, replied today: "I prefer to completely ignore any suggestion that I am coming back."

Precedent Haunts Sharkey In Quest for Heavy Title

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Perhaps it's a bit late to bring the name of Jack Sharkey into the ring, but the fact is that the fighter's name is a precedent that haunts him in his quest for the heavyweight title.

It is the exception, rather than the rule, that for heavyweights to adopt the names of the champions of the past is a bad thing. In the smaller divisions, however, the names of the champions of the past are a good thing.

When boxing was in its infancy, and the game was a sport rather than a business, the names of the champions of the past were a good thing. When boxing was in its infancy, and the game was a sport rather than a business, the names of the champions of the past were a good thing.

There was no Joe Humphries among the Navy champions.

So Paul Cuckoochay, following along the trail of Tom Sharkey, another great heavyweight who came out of the Navy, and into the ring, took the name Jack Sharkey. Later he petitioned the courts for legal title to the name and it was granted.

If Sharkey, or Cuckoochay, had ever delved into heavyweight title records before submitting to the change, he might not have done that. For the records show that in the whole history of 46 heavyweight champions, from the time of the great Jim Figg in 1719 down to James Joseph Tunney, nicknamed "The Gentle Giant," there never has been a title holder who failed to fight under his own name.

That, if nothing else, gives young Bill Stribling, fighting under the family name, a slight advantage over the Boston broadcaster in the title scheduled at Miami Beach, Fla., February 27. It means that Sharkey, if successful, in his first engagement, still must face an additional hurdle to Jack Dempsey's left hook if he opposes the

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT OF KINGS

By H. C. COLLIER

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (U.P.)—Mike Hall, leading handicapper of the American turf, will campaign for Robert M. Eastman, of Chicago, in the English classic race autumn.

The 3-year-old gelding probably will go after the Cesarewitch and the Cambridge, the principal British handicaps decided at Newmarket on October 3.

This Mike Hall is not likely to meet Hugh Connel, Mr. John D. Hertz's Kentucky Derby winner, which is now in training at Newmarket under the care of H. C. Leader, and is being pointed for the Ascot Gold Cup.

Mike Hall, who did not race at two, won nearly $100,000 as a 3 and 4-year-old, victories including the Dixie and Washington Handicaps. The gelding won the Latona Cup in 1927 and 1928.

After wintering at the Beaumont farm near Lexington, Mike Hall will be taken up about the middle of May and will receive his early preparation for the coming campaign with some of the other horses of Hal Price Headley, his former owner. Eastman, desiring to race in England, purchased the gelding recently.

You would like to know how WILLIAM PENN is going to run, go out in the paddock and ask "Whiskers." Tell him I sent you.

They make HOT TIME the favorite in the fifth. Red Apple has his agents down and he is a lucky bird. MINOTAURO may awaken in the sixth, while BILLY BAUGHEN should repeat in the closing spasm.

Down at Oriental Park BUCK, which goes in the opener, is the real horse of the afternoon. Will be mighty hard to beat. I HOPE SO is the system horse, and is on razor edge.

Another probable winner is BRIGAND. He is due to turn a form pop. Nuf sed.

TWIN VICTORY BY BUSINESS HIGH FIVE

Dwains St. John's in Overtime After Beating W. & L.

THE Business High School Basketball team was notably successful yesterday. It defeated the St. John's team in an overtime game last night, 28 to 26, after swamping the Washington and Lee High School Five, 38 to 18, yesterday afternoon.

The game with St. John's was in doubt to the final whistle. At the end of regulation play the teams were deadlocked, 24-24. Jackie Lewis jumped into the air, knocking the ball into the basket. Almost the Naked Truth

By James S. Collins

Baseball knows him as vice president of the Braves. Hockey knows him as president of the Bruins. Boxing knows him as one of the principal stockholders in the new Garden in the Hub. So it can be seen at a glance that Mr. Charles F. Adams is up to his ears in professional sport in Boston.

It was Mr. Adams who first gave public notice to the charge that certain Boston city councilmen were attempting to "shake down" the Braves and the Bruins before issuing permits to play in accordance with the amendment recently approved by the electorate by an overwhelming majority.

SENATE Foe TARGET OF BRAVES

5,000 Tickets Given Man Favoring Sunday Bill Campaign.

BOSTON, Jan. 4 (United Press).—Five to seven thousand baseball tickets were given by the Boston Braves to a candidate for the Senate for distribution in his campaign against a senator who had voted against Sunday sports. Secretary Ed Cunningham, of the Braves, testified today at the third day of investigation into bribe charges involving thirteen members of the Boston city council.

Cunningham told the finance committee, which is investigating the charge that Councilman William G. Lynch sought $25,000 from President Jimmy Fuchs for the support of himself and twelve other city councilmen in passing the Sunday sports bill, that Walter Cunningham did not hear of the fact that number of tickets for distribution. The tickets were stamped on the back, "Vote for Walter Jackson." Jackson opposed the Sunday sports bill.

MANLY GAME FOR WOMEN DECIED

N. Y. Health Official Says Olympic Events Destroy Beauty.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (A.P.)—Dr. Frederick Rank Rogers, New York state director of health and physical education, told the women's division of the Amateur Athletic Federation today he and his department would support them in their opposition to girls' participation in the 1932 Olympic games.

One of the principal reasons he advanced for his stand was his belief that participating in competitive sports destroyed a woman's beauty. He said he thought women ought to do all they could to make themselves beautiful and he approved powder and rouge. But when women become "manly," asserted Dr. Rogers, they take a step downward.

C. J. Fitzgerald, of the Jockey Club, has arranged to have Mike Hall's English training place in the hands of Basil Jarvis, who will give the gelding its final preparation for the autumn fixtures.

PARIS COLD KILLS 4; 38 DIE IN SHIPWRECK

Floods, Snowstorms Gales and Keen Weather Sweep Southward to Italy.

500 HOMELESS IN ROME

Paris, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Seven persons of whom four died later in hospitals, were stricken on Paris streets today by congestion due to the bitterly cold weather which is holding all of France in its grip.

Abundant falls of snow were reported from various sections, Marseilles having 6 inches for the first time within the memory of its oldest inhabitants. Snow in Paris this afternoon impeded trams and automobile traffic. The cold, however, lessened as the snow began.

38 Lost at Sea.

Mahon, Spain, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Thirty-eight persons, including several women, are believed to have perished in the sinking of the French steamer Malakoff yesterday between Cape Barbut and Santa Galiana Bay on the southwest coast of the Isle of Minorca. The vessel, which was bound from Dunkirk and Harro to Madagascar, foundered 7 minutes after striking the rocks in a fog.

Forty-four survivors, including two women, have arrived in Ciudadela. The intensive search is being made for the missing in the hope that they may either be in lifeboats or still afloat in lifeboats.

Italy Suffers Severely.

Rome, Jan. 4.—Five hundred persons are homeless in Rome alone as a result of the prolonged period of floods, violent gales and snowstorms which are sweeping Italy from the Alps to Sicily. Heavy, prolonged rains, coupled with melting snows in the Apennines have sent the Tiber at Rome and the Arno at Florence on a swollen rampage, forcing the municipal authorities of both cities to provide shelter for the homeless persons, many of whom were rescued from danger by firemen and military engineers who are working day and night salvaging property and constructing pontoon bridges.

With the waters of the Tiber at the level of the Sixtine bridge, the streets along the river banks tonight look like the canals of Venice, with rowing boats replacing street cars. With the waters continuing to rise, the authorities fear larger areas of Rome will be flooded, menacing the San Paolo gas plant and electric power.

Snowstorms and gales at the same time are causing havoc in Northern Italy, stopping trains and wrecking stations. The Orient express, from Paris to the Balkans, arriving in Venice today, was 31 hours late, while along the Northern Adriatic coast, even motor traffic is held up. Piume is cut off from Trieste. Milan, Turin, Genoa and Piedmont generally, including the Italian Riviera, are being swept by snow gales.

Grain Sowings Destroyed.

In the South the heavy rainfall is continuous, some districts having their entire grain sowings destroyed. About Naples the telephone service has been interrupted and traffic has been paralyzed, with the loss of through bridges. In Sicily heavy Mediterranean gales are drenching the island, with rain and high winds menacing navigation.

Several accidents and one death are reported from Messina. Water infiltrations have caused the collapse of several buildings in Naples.

Milan reports tonight say that nearly the entire section of northern Italy is covered with between 3 and 5 feet of snow, with resultant grave damage. Lives have been lost among members of ski clubs. One group in the Ligurian Alps has not been heard from for three days. Along the coast of Italy scores of fishing boats still are missing in the gales.

Bloodstains on Floor

Where Woman Vanished

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Chief of Detectives Yarbbery and Commonwealth's Attorney Ote announced today that bloodstains were found on the floor of the basement of the Saringer Motor Apartment here from which Mrs. Ella McDowell Rogers disappeared the night of October 7.

Analysis by Dr. Vernon Robins, city chemist, determined definitely that stains on the floor around the furnace were blood, the two officials said. They did not make public the report on pieces of burned wood, the furnace substance resembling cremated human bones; clinkers giving off a disagreeable odor and other articles given to Dr. Robins for examination.

Spilled Fuel Menaces

Mrs. Stillman's Plane

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—An instrument mechanic stumbled over the dump valve of Mrs. James A. Stillman's monoplane, North Star, in its hangar here today and released 120 gallons of gasoline. The pilot, who plans to fly the plane nonstop to the Canal Zone, and four mechanics ran from the building in terror as the fumes would ignite from a coal stove in the hangar office.

Later the gasoline, more than an inch deep on the hangar floor, was swept out onto the field and all smoking was forbidden until it could evaporate. The flight is not expected to begin until Sunday.

Three Sheep-Killing

Wildcats Shot Down

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 4.—Three sheep-killing wildcats have fallen before Brooks Gap hunters, in north-west Rockingham, in the last three days, ending havoc in the sheep herds of the mountain range.

One of the cats, weighing 23½ pounds, was the largest ever seen in the Brooks Gap country, and put up a hard fight before falling with two shotgun loads. One of the other animals weighed 18 pounds. The third was smaller and described as only a kitten. So soon had been the loss from the wildcats in the sheep herds that the owners were forced to organize hunting parties.

Woman Kills Neighbor, Thinking Him Robber

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Believing that her home was being robbed, Mrs. Anna Minto, 19, of Exeter, today shot and killed Charles Marent, 50, at West Wyoming.

The shooting took place when Marent stopped at the woman's home to borrow a gun for a hunting trip. Failing to recognize the man, a close friend of her husband, Mrs. Minto fired a bullet through a window, killing Marent instantly. Mrs. Marent stated that her family had been living in terror since houses in their neighborhood were entered a week ago.

Betty Simpson, Famous Stowaway, Gone Again

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The far corners and strange ports of the world which have repeatedly lured Betty Simpson away from home and husband, have beckoned again. Today Betty answered the call—the old wanderlust spirit which has earned for her the title of champion woman stowaway. She left for an unannounced destination, Shanghai, London, Paris, possibly Tokyo—it's all the same to her.

It was just a few months ago that Betty returned to her husband, George Brogan, after seven years traveling as a stowaway to various ports.

Betty's last trip as a stowaway ended in her arrest in England. At the time she said she was through with traveling and intended to settle down. She has said she has visited nearly all the important capitals of the world and has never paid a cent for transportation.

"MISSING" WITNESS, BACK, FACES DOCTOR

Mrs. Reed, Head Nurse, Says Rongetti Refused to Aid Dying Girl.

DEATH THREATS RENEWED

Chicago, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—One of the State's three "missing" witnesses in the trial of Dr. Amante Rongetti, accused of the murder of Miss Loretta Enders, 19, by an illegal operation, came to court to testify against him today.

She was Mrs. Hazel Reed, formerly superintendent of nurses at Dr. Rongetti's hospital. She testified that Dr. Rongetti had performed an illegal operation on Miss Enders in her presence and that he had previously performed other such operations on other patients.

She also declared that Dr. Rongetti refused to operate on Miss Enders when she was in a critical condition following the birth of her baby, which had died. She said that he told her the girl and her people had no more money.

Dr. Rongetti once was convicted of the murder and sentenced to death, but the State had pardoned him. Today the Supreme Court granted a new trial. The first trial ended with William Scott Stewart, defense attorney, facing a jail sentence for contempt of court on a charge that he tried to intimidate State witnesses.

Since the second trial started, the State had announced two of its witnesses, including Mrs. Reed, had vanished and last night another witness called the police and said he would not testify because he had been threatened with death and efforts to find him today were futile.

Mrs. Reed, however, was produced by the State, but the other missing witness, Lorraine Irwin, a nurse who at the first trial said she also was present when Dr. Rongetti operated, has not been found. A man whom she has married since the first trial was arrested today, but said he did not know where his wife was.

11 Bandits in Mexico Hanged Along Railway

Mexico City, Jan. 4 (United Press).—Eleven bandits were executed near Aguascalientes today when they were caught preparing to wreck a train from Juarez, according to the newspaper Oraculo's correspondent. The bandit leader, Melton Espinosa, was one of those executed, the advice said. The bodies of the bandits were hanged from telephone poles as a warning to others. It was recalled that President Portes Gil's recent order prohibiting further summary executions especially excluded bandits captured on charges of interfering with transportation lines.

Spanish Plane Wreck Found; Fliers Missing

Madrid, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Wreckage of a Spanish plane which has been missing since Monday has been found on the beach near No. 10. No trace was found of its three occupants, Commander Francisco Rodriguez Causa, Capt. Pedro Tauler and Juan Martinez Morillo, mechanic. The plane left Cartagena Monday for Melilla.

A Spanish cruiser and a military hydroplane are continuing search for the airmen who, officials believe, may have reached some of the islands of the region or have been picked up by a boat.

3 Boys Burn to Death As Home Is Destroyed

Emmence, Mo., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Three children all boys, were burned to death today in a fire that destroyed their home, five miles south of Emmence.

The victims were sons of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hicks. The parents had gone to the home of his mother, only 400 feet away, and did not notice the fire until the dwelling was enveloped in flames. The father suffered burns on the head and face in an attempt to enter the burning building, in which the children apparently had been trapped.

Arkansas Pilgrims Gov. Byrd's Guests

Party Arrives in Richmond After Making Visits to Grave of Jefferson.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—On a pilgrimage to study certain State progress to government, commerce and industry, Gov. Harry P. Byrd and 135 other Arkansas legislators, State officials and industrial leaders arrived here early this afternoon from Charlottesville.

A tour of the city's industrial district with glimpses of the city's historical background, a buffet supper by Gov. and Mrs. Harry P. Byrd, and a conference in the hall of the House of Delegates at which Gov. Byrd and Mayor Fulmer Bright formally will greet the visitors—all are on the program. Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Pausing briefly in their search for information on how to develop industries, the Arkansas legislature and State officials today visited historic Monticello near here where Gov. Harry Parnell placed a wreath on the grave of Thomas Jefferson. This followed a visit by the Arkansans to the University of Virginia, accompanied by Dr. E. A. Alderman, and to what are said to be the oldest woolen mills in America located near here.
